

GIANT PLANE STARTS FLIGHT NORTH

LINDBERGH'S COMPLETE HOP

LAND PLANE AT NORTHERN POST ON LONG TRIP

Good Weather Marks
1,100 Mile Trip From
Baker Lake

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Aug. 5.—Flying on schedule, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife landed here in their Lockheed Sirius amphibian at 3:05 a. m. (Pacific Standard time), today.

The flight from Baker Lake where they took off yesterday at 5:45 C. S. T., took slightly more than eleven hours.

The Lindberghs surprised this town on the Mackenzie River as their plane swooped down from the skies. No word had been received here on the rim of the Arctic of the take-off of the famous flyers from Baker Lake.

Dropping down from the muck of a northern twilight, Lindbergh and his wife were greeted by a chorus of howls from hundreds of husky dogs on the river bank as the big plane landed gracefully on the Mackenzie River.

As soon as word of their landing spread, the residents of this town turned out en masse to greet the great flyer and his wife.

Their plane was made fast to the river bank and as they stepped out, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh found themselves before a group of traders, trappers, mounted police, missionaries, several wireless operators and the few white women who reside here.

In the background were Indians and Eskimos who had trekked hundreds of miles from the wilderness to be in the town to see the famous flyer about whom they had heard so much.

The well-known Lindbergh smile flashed from the cockpit of the monoplane as it taxied to the bank. Mrs. Lindbergh, smiling happily, waved a greeting to the group on the bank.

Both flyers looked fresh and cheerful despite the gruelling 1,100 miles of night flying over the Arctic wilderness. They supervised the mooring of the plane and then were taken over by the group of white people here who were ready to show them the hospitality of the Arctic.

The flyers experienced good weather on their flight over the barren north. Storms which swept the Arctic regions until yesterday subsided and no difficulty was experienced on the trip, Col. Lindbergh said.

In making the flight, another leg on their vacation trip from Washington to Tokyo, the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh passed over what many aviators considered the most dangerous portion of the journey.

THREE NEW YORK BANKS ARE CLOSED

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The state banking department today took possession of the business and property of three banks in this city. The institutions are:

The American Union Bank.
The International-Madison Bank and Trust Company.

The Times Square Trust Company and the Times Square Safe Deposit Company both of which are located at the same address in Seventh Ave.

State Superintendent of Banks Broderick said in the case of the three banks they were taken over because of the non-liquid condition and depreciation in the value of assets. Therefore, he added, it is deemed unsafe and inexpedient to permit the institutions to continue in business.

AN OLD ESKIMO CUSTOM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Hoover, like the Eskimos, has a passion for gum drops. He even likes a particular brand.

This highly illuminating information was developed today when J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, called at the White House carrying under his arm what obviously was a box of candy.

"They are gum drops," he explained. "The President likes a special brand I can get in Cleveland, so before I left home last night I got a box to bring along to him."

GILBERT-CLAIRE MARRIAGE DISSOLVED

Ina Claire and John Gilbert

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 5.—The marriage of John Gilbert and Ina Claire stood dissolved today with Miss Claire declaring she 'couldn't live with him any more' and Jack asserting that "Miss Claire has been a lady through it all."

Gilbert was not present yesterday at the star chamber divorce session held by Superior Judge

Joseph P. Sproul. Miss Claire was there, however, as were Paul Bern, motion picture executive, and Stona Larson, the actress' secretary. The latter two were corroborating witnesses.

In record to a financial settlement, Gilbert issued a statement which declared that "she has been more than fair in every way and has refused all offers of a financial settlement from me."

PLOTTER SOUGHT IN ATTEMPT TO ROB $25,000 FROM BANKER

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—A man who police believed "read too many detective stories" was hunted today as the promoter of a dynamite plot to rob a local banker of $25,000. The plot was disclosed with the discovery of a cleverly constructed bomb in a parcel locker at a downtown bus terminal.

Together with the bomb police found a three-page, hand-printed note outlining the plot in detail. The note included everything but the name of the intended victim and the identity of the plotter.

GOVERNOR WHITE IS GUEST AT CATHOLIC SOCIETY'S DINNER

Church Dignitaries Present; Election Features Meet

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—Having acted as hostesses to Governor George White and several church leaders at a banquet last night, 500 delegates and visitors to the fifteenth triennial convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus today plunged into an all-day program of business sessions.

Initiation of new members by the Columbus degree team tonight was to be the only exception to the outline of business meetings. Besides Governor White, those in attendance at last night's banquet included Rt. Rev. James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus; Monsignor S. P. Weisinger, Rev. George E. Gressel, Rev. Bernard P. Vogel, and Col. William M. Mumm.

On behalf of the state, Governor White welcomed the delegates to Ohio's capital and invited them to visit the statehouse and the governor's mansion on their sightseeing tour tomorrow.

Officials hoped to clear away most of the important business today, excepting the election, which is scheduled for Friday. The program tomorrow is filled with entertainment for the delegates.

With all the present officers listed as candidates for reelection and aspirants certain to be listed from other cities as opponents, pre-election plans today continued to occupy the chief attention of many of the delegates.

SEVENTY BUSHELS
MARYSVILLE, O., Aug. 5.—The largest yield of oats reported in Union County this year was that threshed by Herman Rausch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rausch on the Wolf farm in Union Twp. More than 700 bushels were threshed from ten acres of ground, averaging a little more than seventy bushels per acre. The oats were reported to be number one quality.

WEATHER SMILES AS COUNTY FAIR OPENS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

"Bigger And Better" Is
Promise Of Board
Officials

The ninety-second annual Greene County Fair, described by officials as "bigger and better than ever" this year, was inaugurated Wednesday under auspicious weather conditions.

With a warm sun beaming down out of a cloudless sky, one of the largest Wednesday crowds in the history of the yearly exposition was anticipated by members of the fair board.

Beginning in a modest way nearly a century ago, the fair has grown under the nurture of the agricultural society until it is today recognized as one of the best county fairs in the state. It continues to be a place where the predominant spirit is along the line of the development of agricultural interests and is the one place where agriculture reigns supreme and receives its greatest appreciation.

One of the annual fair features again scheduled this year is a team pulling contest to be held Thursday and Friday in front of the grand stand.

The livestock and organization parade will take place Friday morning in front of the grand stand and prizes are offered as follows: beef breeds, first, $10; second, $5; dairy breeds, first, $10; second, $5; organization floats, first, $10; second, third and fourth $5 each. F. B. Turnbull, N. N. Hunter and W. C. Smith are in charge.

Exhibits in 22 classes of livestock, clothing clubs, food clubs, girls' room club, flower clubs, potato clubs and vegetable garden clubs will be furnished by the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club department in charge of County Agent E. A. Drake, Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent, and H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent.

More than 400 young people are entered in the various projects and they are competing with eager enthusiasm for the prizes offered, including $800 set aside for this purpose by the fair board. In addition, there will be a style show, with girls modeling dresses made by themselves; a contest to determine the healthiest boy and girl, dairy club judging contest and demonstration teams.

Premiums amounting to $50 are offered in the sheep department to each of the ten leading breeds in this section of Ohio by Walter St. John, member in charge.

In each of the following cattle classes, premiums totaling $160 are offered: Holsteins, Jerseys, Polled Jerseys and Guernseys dairy breeds; Aberdeen Angus, Galloways, Herefords, Shorthorns and Polled Durhams.

The swine department is in charge of J. E. Lewis and the premium list totals $162 for each of the five leading breeds of hogs. Breeds competing are the Poland China, Duroc Jersey, Hampshire, Spotted Poland China and Chester White.

The following classification is offered for thirty-five breeds and poultry: cock, cockerel, hen and pullet, and young and old pen, consisting of one male and four females.

The art and needle work department is in charge of Mrs. L. H. Jones.

The Grange exhibit will be judged on a 100 point system, the prizes being for a dollar a point less 10 per cent of the winnings.

BERLIN BANKS OPEN WITHOUT INCIDENT

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Absolute calm today featured reopening of Berlin's banks after a three week holiday enforced by government decree.

There were no signs of runs during the early hours, and although a large number of persons took advantage of the opportunity to withdraw funds, an equal number made new deposits.

The general attitude among the people was that money is at least as safe in the banks as at home, as in the event of inflation, hoarded money would be virtually thrown away.

While the government thought that the finances of the Reich were strong enough to permit reopening of the banks, it kept in force restrictions on the sale of foreign currencies and further announced that foreign exchange would be made available at the Reichsbank only for vital imports.

BULL CAST ASIDE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 5.—Charging he caused her mental anguish by fighting with her, the wife of "Bull" Montana, wrestler, boxer, and movie actor, today had filed a divorce action against him. Mrs. Montana, formerly Mary Poulson, married Montana two years ago when she was 23.

THREE KILLED IN RIOT OVER EVICTION ORDER

Eviction of a negro family for non-payment of rent resulted in a riot of several hundred negro protestors in Chicago during which three negroes were killed and three policemen injured. All police reserves in the city were called out. Above photo shows curious crowds looking over the scene of battle with policemen experiencing a hard time preserving order.

TROOPS SHUT DOWN OIL PRODUCTION TO FORCE HIGHER PRICE

Governor Enforces Order;
Seeking Dollar
Increase

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 5.—Striving to raise the price of petroleum to a profitable basis for the producers, Governor William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray today enforced his shutdown order throughout the oil fields by martial law.

Around a large number of the $106 listed oil wells producing more than twenty-five barrels a day, military zones were maintained by state militiamen. Stripper wells were not affected by the action.

Troops moved into the oil fields late yesterday to enforce the shutdown. There was no violence, and the closing of the wells was accomplished in the face of some of the major companies' threats to disregard the governor's order.

Cleora I. Murray, commissioned a lieutenant colonel by his uncle the Governor, was in charge of the guardsmen in the derricks-sprinkled territory.

Governor Murray issued his shutdown mandate under an Oklahoma statute never before invoked which prohibits oil production when the market price is below the "actual value." He asserted he would keep the wells closed until the price of oil has advanced at least $1 a barrel. The present price is from forty to fifty cents.

As long as the gubernatorial order stands more than 350,000 barrels of Oklahoma's present production of 425,000 barrels daily will be cut off. Governor Murray insisted his order would remain until the price comes up to $1, unless he is ordered to revoke his ruling by President Hoover or the United States Supreme Court.

Among the first wells to be closed yesterday were five of the Champlin Refining Co., and others of the Sinclair Co., near Oklahoma City. Since the Champlin wells were operating under federal court injunction, their closing may bring notice of Governor Murray's action to federal authorities.

BANDIT SOUGHT FOR SHOOTING OF THREE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 5.—A widespread search, participated in by police and private citizens, was launched here today to find the Negro bandit who shot and wounded three girls, robbed them, and held them captive for four hours.

Victims of the desperado were Augusta Williams, Nell Williams, and Jennie Wood. All three are prominent in Birmingham social circles.

Vera Cruz and southern Tamaulipas, several villages being completely under water.

THREE SWEEPED OUT TO SEA; CITY FLOODED BY CONTINUOUS RAIN

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Three men and a woman were swept out to sea and a large portion of Tampico was under three feet of water today as the result of two weeks of continuous rains in north-eastern Mexico, according to dispatches received in Mexico City.

The dispatches stated that the flood water of the Panuco, Tameles and other rivers had inundated 25,000 square kilometers in northern

HARRY SMITH NAMED DEPUTY TREASURER FOR GREENE COUNTY

HARRY SMITH

PETER ARNO BLAMED BY VANDERBILT FOR MARITAL TROUBLES

Claims He Actually Shot
At Artist In Reno,
Nevada

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5.—Further developments in the celebrated feud between Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and Peter Arno, were awaited today following the remarks dropped yesterday by the former just after he had been divorced by Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt.

"I hold Arno responsible for what has happened, and he has brought upon himself responsibility for anything that may occur in the future," said Vanderbilt.

This statement was issued while Mrs. Vanderbilt was seeing Judge B. F. Currier at the courthouse. Mrs. Vanderbilt sat for ten minutes before the bench in company with her attorney, William Woodburn, and Vanderbilt's lawyer, Sam Platt. When she departed, she had her decree.

Since the case was heard behind locked doors, nothing was learned of Mrs. Vanderbilt's charges other than that she alleged "extreme cruelty." Vanderbilt did not contest the suit.

An "amicable" property settlement was reached, attorneys announced, but the details were not made known.

Vanderbilt yesterday declared that he had actually fired a revolver at Arno in a conflict resulting from the latter's alleged attentions to Mrs. Vanderbilt. Previously it was reported that Vanderbilt had chased the satirist with an unloaded gun.

Treasurer-Elect H. M. Van Pelt Announces Appointment

Appointment of Harry M. "Atlas" Smith, Paintersville grocer and prominent American Legion worker, as his chief deputy was announced Wednesday by Harold Van Pelt, county treasurer-elect who assumes office Sept. 7 to serve his first elective term of two years. Miss Helen Dodds, present treasurer, will retire from office after serving two consecutive terms.

Mr. Smith, who will succeed to the position now held by Mr. Van Pelt, is a past commander of Joseph Poody Post, No. 95, American Legion.

The son of M. S. Smith, formerly superintendent of the Greene County Infirmary, he was graduated from Xenia Central High School in 1916. The following two years he attended Muskingum College, New Concord, O., after which he enlisted in the U. S. army in January, 1918, serving one and one-half years with the Sixth Division. He spent one year overseas during the late war.

For the last nine and one-half years he has been engaged in the grocery business at Paintersville. He is also a member of the Masonic Lodge.

The new chief deputy is married and has one child, a 9-year-old boy.

AROUSES TOWN TO CHECK FIRE

Locomotive Whistle Saves
Village

GRAFTON, O., Aug. 5.—The shrieking whistle of a railroad train today aroused residents of this village in time to halt the spread of a raging fire which threatened to envelop the entire downtown section.

The blaze was extinguished after it had destroyed the George C. Spitzer Hardware Co. store and the Grafton Hotel. Loss was estimated at $38,000.

Noticing the flames, an engineer of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train which was passing through the village near the burning buildings, gave several sharp blasts on his locomotive whistle.

Mrs. Carl Mole, village telephone operator, was warned by the whistle and she phoned the sleeping residents. Mayor Frank Cousins called out of bed by Mrs. Mole, requested help from the Elyria fire department which sent a pumper to the scene.

EDISON IMPROVED

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5.—Although Thomas A. Edison spent a restless night, he was bright and cheerful this morning and seemed to be "slightly improved," his personal physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, announced today. Edison collapsed last Saturday and since then has been under the care of three physicians.

GERMAN PLANE DO-X FOLLOWS SHORES OF BRAZIL TO NEW YORK

Perfect Take-Off Launches
Ship And
Passengers

By ROBERT G. ASPINALL
I. N. S. Special Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931, by I. N. S.)
ABOARD THE DO-X, Aug.

5.—With her twelve engines beating rhythmically, the great German seaplane DO-X was skirting the verdant shores of Brazil this morning, soaring in the direction of Caravellas, the first stop on the way to New York.

To our right stretched the Atlantic, calm and blue, like a great mirror; to our left the luxuriant, many-colored tropical jungle. We were in high spirits and had not yet begun to feel the effects of the brilliant equatorial sun.

Our ship felt as solid as an ocean liner and we were able to move about freely without danger of upsetting the equilibrium of our craft.

All members of the crew and the eleven passengers, which included two women, had been told to be at the Quay Paroux, at Rio de Janeiro, where the DO-X was moored, at 6 a. m. (4 a. m. Columbus time) in readiness for the take-off a half hour later.

The engines had been tested and the ship provisioned for the long northward passage. Captain Paul Berner lost no time in starting. Clarence Schildhauer, American pilot, was at the controls.

A member of the DO-X crew gave her the gun and the seaplane skimmed along the surface of the bay into the wind. Leaving a trail of white foam, she at length began to skip lightly, then lifted beautifully into the air and headed over Rio. We started exactly on at schedule, 6:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. E. S. T.).

Below we could see the streets filled with well-wishers for a successful voyage, and the brilliant white buildings of the city. As a tribute to the hospitable city which had been the host of the DO-X since her arrival from across the Atlantic from Friedrichshafen, Captain Berner circled over it before turning north.

We were told that we should reach Caravellas about noon, in time for luncheon, but if we wished we could have sandwiches and drinks on board. As we have no kitchen, we shall have to rely on hotels at the places on our itinerary for hot food. After Caravellas the next stop on our schedule was Bahia. There the DO-X will stay overnight before proceeding towards Natal, Para, Paramaribo, Trinidad, San Juan and Miami.

Among the most enthusiastic passengers to board the DO-X at Rio were Mrs. Clara Adams of Tannersville, Pa., and "Miss Germany of 1930." The latter is now Mrs. Doris Von Clausbruck, wife of one of our pilots.

Mrs. Adams has long been air-minded. She was aboard the Graf Zeppelin when it set out from Friedrichshafen on a transatlantic voyage, but had to turn back when over Spain because of disabled engines.

On board also was Commander F. W. Hamer, representing the builders of the DO-X and "Eric Dornier, engineer and brother of Dr. Claude Dornier, designer of the seaplane, which is the largest ever built.

Before leaving Rio, Herr Hamer issued a statement to the people of Rio thanking them for their hospitality and saying that he decided to take off today because it was the birthday of Bartolomeu Gusmao, Brazilian pioneer in aviation.

PEACE RESTORED BY POLICE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of police patrolled the streets of the "black belt" today, alert for any signs of disorder which might develop into a riot similar to that of Monday, in which three Negroes were slain.

Police Commissioner John Alcock meantime notified Communist agitators that if they incited further riots all leaders of the Communist party would be jailed. Monday's riot started over an attempt of a bailiff to evict a penniless woman from her home.

It was announced that the twenty-one prisoners taken at the scene of the outbreak will be prosecuted on charges of inciting a riot and for contempt of court in resisting court order for eviction.

MONTGOMERY IS 70

NEW CONCORD, O., Aug. 5.—By conducting chapel in the summer school of Muskingum College, which he has served as president for seven years, Dr. J. Knox Montgomery today had celebrated his seventieth birthday. Dr. Montgomery is moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church and head of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

OCELOTS PROVIDE FUR FOR MILADY'S NEW FALL JACKETS

By ALICE LANGEIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS—Every woman will fall for the little fur jackets this fall when she sees the cute ones that are being fashioned by the French designers.

The popularity of the summer jacket is undoubtedly going to carry on through the cooler season, but this does not mean an ultra-short one, for fur does not lend itself so readily to this extreme and in Paris, at least, one needs some protection.

Many kinds of fur are going to be used, such as black broad-tail-caracul which is a cross between the two furs and has some of the virtues of each one, gray shaved lamb and rabbit.

Maggie Rouff is showing a smart little leopard jacket worn with a bright green and white skirt. The leather belt is of bright green and the scarf of the jacket is detachable.

"Ocelot" is also going to provide many a smart woman with a little jacket or coat. Ocelot is a small leopard cat, found in South America, remarkable for its beautiful markings and soft fur. It can make some handsome jackets.

Ermine is also going to be popular for the black and white combination has always been and always will be a favorite with the Parisienne. And it is likely that several of the designers will bring out special furs of their own, selecting a certain type of skin, dyeing it and treating it specially for their purposes. Broadtail and astrakhan will also make some pretty little jackets.

CONTRACTOR WORKS DOUBLE SHIFTS TO HURRY PAVING JOB

A force of about twenty-five men, working in two shifts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m., is expected to rush to speedy completion the project of widening and remodeling eight and four-tenths miles of the Wilmington Pike, extending from Xenia to the Clinton County line.

The Republic Asphalt and Paving Co., Dayton, has the contract for the improvement and date set for completion of the work is November 1.

The highway is to be widened from fourteen to twenty feet with a three-foot strip of concrete on each side. The middle part, fourteen feet in width, will be given a new top coating of bituminous concrete.

The policy of working laborers in two shifts is expected to be continued until the hours of daylight dwindle to a point where only one shift will be practical. The portion of the road being improved is not expected to be entirely closed to traffic at any time, although it will not be open to travel during the daytime while the center part is being surface treated. In the evening, when the working day is ended, traffic will be permitted over the stretch.

OLD ENDENTURE IS FILED AT FREMONT

FREMONT, O., Aug. 5.—An indenture, transferring title of eighty acres of real estate in Sandusky township, dated September 6, 1854, has been filed for record in the office of County Recorder A. H. Zahn.

The indenture, although seventy-seven years old, is still in good condition and the writing, all in ink, is plainly visible.

The edges of the indenture have not yellowed with age, nor are the folds of the paper badly worn, showing the document was seldom opened since it was filed out.

The indenture was made out by Judge John Bell, of probate court, an office created in 1852, later being consolidated with the office of common pleas judge, over which Judge Bell also ruled. The land involved in the sale was sold by County Treasurer Oliver McIntyre in the January term of court in 1854 to justify a claim of delinquent taxes against the property involved. No consideration was given. County Auditor Horace Clark sold the property to Joseph Miller, assignee of the estate of B. J. Bartlett.

An indenture in legal parlance is a deed, the same being derived according to Probate Judge Robert Gabel, from the fact that "when transfers of real estate are made, the deed is indented or cut in two pieces, the cut being made in irregular lines. One piece is given the grantee and the other the grantor. When full title is gained, both grantor and grantee meet, and the deed is placed together."

The deeds were cut, it is believed, to prevent changes being made in either half of the deed, and new papers substituted. The indenture now filed in the records office was not cut.

HILL BEING SLICED AGAIN BY PROGRESS

LANCASTER, O., Aug. 5.—Shimp's hill, an old Fairfield County landmark, is being cut down again.

When the Baltimore road was re-routed to pass over the top of the hill many years ago, it was cut down thirty-five feet.

Now, with plans being made to pave the road, the hill is being reduced again, this time by eighteen feet. The hill top is of solid rock.

PHEASANTS RECEIVED
LONDON, O., Aug. 5.—H. H. Umbenhauer, Madison County deputy game protector, reports the receipt of 160 Hungarian pheasants from Tom Nash, manager of the Champaign County game farm near Urbana.

CROSS-EYED CONFESSIONS

THE STORY of how I wrecked my life is so unusual I feel that I should preface it with a few bits of information. I don't know whether or not my readers are acquainted with some of the finer points of an abattoir, but every up-to-date meat packing establishment has what they call a "ham Smeller." He's a specially trained expert who can tell by a couple of sniffs whether a ham has been properly cured or not.

Otto, my fiancée, was such an artist, and no man living ever had a finer or more sensitive nose. Even when handicapped by a terrible cold, Otto could tell the good hams from the bad ones.

It was Otto's wonderful nose that intrigued me, and I would stand in that packing house for hours watching him sniffing here and sniffing there. I soon weakened, and my admiration for this great gift of his led me to become his bride.

We were married in the cold meat department of the packing plant. Our many friends had daintily arranged the sausages and frankfurters into artistic letters until they formed the words "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

The Wedding Shower

After the wedding, instead of using rice and confetti, the guests showered us with slices of salami, headcheese and liverwurst. It was a beautiful ceremony and I, as the bride, was the envy of every girl in the slaughter house.

We moved to our own little bungalow in the suburbs and my husband insisted upon my quitting my job. He said I was so sweet that I distracted him when he was trying to sniff hams. He was just that kind of a man. He wouldn't even let love interfere with his work.

Everything went along wonderfully for a few months until one of the ham smellers died and Otto had to take over his sniffing. He would sniff from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10 or 11 o'clock at night. If there is such a thing as reincarnation, I'm sure that Otto will come back to earth as a bloodhound.

Otto's added hours left me with lots of idle time on my hands, and instead of improving myself by listening to the radio or working crossword puzzles, I found myself seeking the company of other men.

I can't yet understand how I could have done such a thing, as Otto was the kindest and most lovable husband in the world. Many a time he would sniff twice as fast hear the dog howl as Otto kicked him while coming up the walk.

I was petrified but I didn't lose my head. Pulling open the closet door I motioned to my boy friend to go in there and hide. He had no sooner secreted himself in the closet when the front door swung open and my husband entered the room.

I immediately started to complain and hawl him out as though nothing had happened. He kissed me and told me he had had a hard day at the packing plant and wanted to go upstairs and give his nose a rest, when all of a sudden he started sniffing.

First he sniffed on one side of the room and then on the other. Then, grabbing me by the shoulders he said, "Marie!—I smell HAM—and not a particularly good one, either."

True to Form

Straight to the closet he went, opened the door and shined a flash light in Basil's face. Basil, an actor to his finger tips, took three bows and made his exit.

When Otto was convinced that Basil had been a gentleman in every respect and treated me with nothing but courtesy, he was furious. "I could forgive you, dear, if the actor had made some advances to you, tried to hold your hand or kiss you, but it will ruin me in my profession. If it ever leaks out that you brought a ham into my home that wasn't even FRESH."

Of course Otto and I could not go on after that, but if the story of how I wrecked my life serves as a warning to other girls in a sausage factory I will consider my mistake well worth while.

FAMILY HOLDS REUNION SUNDAY.

The descendants of Malory and Tompsey Thornhill assembled at the country home of Mr. Arthur Thornhill, near Alpha, Sunday for their annual family reunion. At noon dinner was served cafeteria style from tables placed on the lawn. The oldest member of the family present was Mr. Malory Thornhill, who is 98 years of age. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Preston Thornhill, New Jasper; Mr. and Mrs. William Badders and family, Miss Grace Thornhill, Miss Elizabeth Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornhill, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Smith and Mr. Russell Thornhill, Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Ora Harness and daughter, Mrs. Belle Harness and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett and son, of Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Sipe and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Bates and son, of Cedarville; Mrs. Gusta Rhodes Upham, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Volney Harness, Washington C. H.; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hite, Jamestown; Mr. and Mrs. James Mason and family, Port William; Mr. Marion Hisk, Mr. Malovey Thornhill and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thornhill and family, near Alpha.

CEDARVILLE MAN TO BE MARRIED SOON.

Invitations have been received by relatives and friends in Cedarville to the marriage of Mr. Mark Collins, Cedarville, and Miss Anna Mary Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Dixon, New Concord. O. The wedding will be solemnized Friday evening, August 14, at 8 o'clock in the United Presbyterian Church, at New Concord.

Mr. Collins is a son of Mrs. Gordon Collins, Cedarville. He is well known in educational circles having taught for two years in Beaver creek High School and four years in Mission College, Assisi, Egypt. At present he is working towards his Ph. D. at Ohio State University and has accepted a position as head of the educational department of Tarkio College, Tarkio, Mo., where he will take up his new work September first. Mr. Collins and Miss Dixon met in Egypt several years ago when Miss Dixon was also teaching there.

COUPLE'S MARRIAGE IS OF INTEREST HERE.

The secret marriage of Miss Doris Kuns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kuns, near Clyde, O., to Mr. Ross Irons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Irons, Clyde, O., is being received with interest here as Mr. Irons is a former resident of Springfield. The couple was married in Bluffton, Ind., June 27, by the pastor of a Reformed Church.

Mrs. Irons is a graduate of the Clyde High School and later attended the Tiffin Business College. She has been employed for four years in the office of the National Kraft Packers' Association in Clyde as secretary to Mr. Roy Irons, the bridegroom's father, who is secretary of the association. Mr. Irons had been employed by the same firm but for the past few years has been assistant manager of Meeters, Inc., a large canning corporation in Lansing, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Irons will reside in Lansing.

The Rev. C. A. Hutchison, pastor of the M. E. Church, Cedarville, will preach at Trinity M. E. Church this city, Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. E. A. Rager. The Rev. R. S. McColm, this city, will occupy the Rev. Mr. Hutchison's pulpit at Cedarville.

Attention, Milady! Here's the Very Latest and Most Chic Hats and Suit

New Derby Chapeaux in Dark Green Velvet, Trimmed with Buckle or Ribbon, Are Proving Immensely Popular. Wine-Colored Lyons Velvet Street Suits Also Favorites.

If Milady wants to know just what to wear in the way of chapeau and becoming, chic suits for street wear, cast your eyes upon this array of aids to feminine charm. You can feel as swanky as the next girl, with perhaps a much leaner purse, if you outfit yourself in one of these stunning creations. Note the type of new derby hat in dark green velvet at left. It is simply trimmed with a light green buckle in front and string of velvet ribbon, encircling the crown, ending in a knot and two ends in back. At right is an attractive little black velvet hat of Second Empire type. The little flowers along the side are of white kid. And don't forget the wine colored Lyons velvet street suit portrayed in center. It is trimmed with grey Persian Lamb, lined with ash rose satin and tailored blouse of crepe and satin to match. Note tassel of same material as suit. Patent leather shoes, grey suede gloves and grey suede bag, trimmed with black patent, complete the charming ensemble.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Clothes are going to be an adventure this year.

Wisely have the fashion designers borrowed from the past, and by clever adaptation have incorporated fashion highlights of other days into clothes that are ultra-modern in their taste, beauty and harmonious relationship with the world of today.

The general acceptance of the model known as the Empress Eugenie has paved the way for picturesque clothes. In truth, the Eugenie is indeed a revolutionary hat. For it has made necessary a complete revolution in the general silhouette. Thus, the fullness will be above the waist, especially for those coats designed for street wear. The flared skirt for coats and suits will give way to the wrap-around effect to accompany bodice fullness. Tiny muffs will be featured with many of the new coats and fur trimmed suits. Fur

NARROW ESCAPE

NEW CONCORD, O., Aug. 5.—Even water holds an additional horror for Foster Pyle of near here after his narrow escape from death.

Seeking to determine why a hissing sound was coming from the way he was on his farm, Pyle lit a match at the well rim and a terrific explosion followed, burning him severely. Examination showed that natural gas had forced its way through the well wall and was escaping from the mouth of the shaft.

Elizabeth Luce, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luce, Hill St., who underwent an operation for appendicitis at McClellan Hospital Saturday, is improving nicely.

The Rev. Charles Nash, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Caldwell, O., will preach at the regular morning service Sunday at 10:45 o'clock at the First U. P. Church in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. J. P. Lytle. The Rev. Mr. Nash is the son of Mrs. R. H. Nash, east of Xenia.

XENIANS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Earl and Roger Heaton and Miss Mary Heaton, sons and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heaton, 439 S. Detroit St., Miss Donald Cost, Dayton Ave., and Joseph Murphy, Troy, O., were injured in an automobile accident in Washington, D. C. Tuesday morning according to word received by relatives here. All of them received cuts and bruises and Miss Cost was the most painfully hurt the message stated.

The party left here Sunday to spend a week visiting places of interest in the East. The accident occurred when their automobile collided with another car, it is said and the Heaton machine was badly damaged. The party will remain in Washington while repairs are being made to the automobile and will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Davis.

COUNTY 4-H CLUB NEWS

N. G. ? CLUB MEETS The Jefferson Twp. N. G. ? Girls Club held its final meeting for the season at Jefferson Twp. School Friday afternoon. Plans for the Greene County Fair were discussed. Two girls from the food club and two girls from the sewing club will give demonstrations at the fair it was decided at the meeting.

trimmed cloth coats for general wear and velvet coats, luxuriously befringed, for formal afternoon and informal evening wear will be the rule.

Velvet will be more the vogue than ever. At one time regarded as a luxury fabric, it has been so developed and improved that the finest weaves are now moderate in price and so within the reach of most of us. The cheaper grades of velvet that wore so badly and looked bedraggled and crushed after almost the initial wearing are disappearing before the really excellent and hard wearing qualities of the new velvets.

Velvet for formal afternoon and evening will be the rule, with of course velvet hats playing a tremendous role in the latest style pageant.

Felt will make its re-entry after an absence of several seasons as a millinery highlight. It will be used alone and also combined with velvet and chenille. Be careful of the new hats. There is a right and a wrong way to wear them. Seek the advice of a capable saleswoman and study the pages of style magazines before deciding on one. It may be true, too, that the style of hair dressing will not suit your new hat. In that case you should seek modified adaptations of the new mode. And be careful about feathers.

Ostrich feather trimming and long plumes are back very much in keeping with the new sartorial picture. They are lovely and most picturesque. But an elaborately trimmed ostrich hat is not for general wear or for the business girl en route to or from the office. Better stock to a plain hat with a tiny feather fancy or a quill. Use the new modes with discretion. Don't wear anything at all times just because it is the fashion. One becomes part of the mode by adopting and adapting the best of the current fashions and wearing them at the right time and for the correct occasion. Even the cheapest store will be showing versions of the flat bowler hat in felt or velvet, encircled with ostrich feather trimming and having a plume hanging over the brim. It is a mode that naturally lends itself to exploitation. And so be careful about wearing it. Don't let the new hats go to your head.

It is a mode that naturally lends itself to exploitation. And so be careful about wearing it. Don't let the new hats go to your head.

As to the new coats, many will have separate shoulder capelets of fur, also gilets or waistcoats of fur for the more sporty models. Leopard, beaver, red fox and cross fox, Persian lamb and astrakhan will be used for utility and general wear coats. For the dressy coat silver fox, skunk, cross fox, blue fox and skunk will be favored.

Evening wraps will be mostly of velvet, long, slim and topped with rich fur collars. Afternoon ensembles in velvet with fine lace will also be part of the high mode. Of the evening frocks, more anon.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. WALTER HAMILTON

Funeral services for Mrs. Mayme Sheetz Hamilton, who died at her home in Des Moines, Ia., were held Saturday morning in South Charleston and burial was made there. Mrs. Hamilton was well known in this city as she had a number of relatives here and had often visited in Xenia. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Hamilton is survived by a son, Charles Hamilton, of Des Moines, and a granddaughter, her husband, Walter Hamilton, preceded her in death two years. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Owens, Mrs. Lawrence John, this city; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Owens, Dayton, formerly of this city and Mrs. Ernest Owens, Dayton, attended the funeral services.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO STEALING AUTO

George Connors, 19, colored, 4 Columbus St. alleged to have been implicated with two other Negroes in the theft of an auto from a parking lot at the Hooven and Allison Co., last June 25, pleaded not guilty but was held to the grand jury under $500 bond by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Wednesday.

Connors had evaded arrest until Tuesday night when police apprehended him. The stolen machine, a Chevrolet coupe belonging to Horace Watson, was later recovered at Akron. O. Two colored men, accused of being implicated in the theft, were also arrested in that city and returned to Xenia.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession.—
Psalm, ii, 8.

GREAT FLOODS

Survivors of the great flood of the Mississippi in 1927 will have less difficulty than other Americans in visualizing what the Yangtze river is now doing to central China. The Mississippi inundation covered 28,500 square miles and took a total of 214 lives and property valued at possibly $300,000,000. The Yangtze is now raging down a valley that contains perhaps 200,000,000 people. Already hundreds of lives are reported lost, while the damage to crops means starvation for thousands more. Anhwei province is described as a vast sheet of water, — and there are 20,000,000 people in that province alone.

The most spectacular effect of the flood is reported from the three cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang, which huddle together six hundred miles up from the China sea and are collectively called the "Chicago of China." They have a combined population of probably 2,500,000. The Hanyang Iron & Steel Works is the most pretentious industrial establishment in the country. If you picture roughly equivalent populations of Detroit, Pittsburgh and say, Seattle, wallowing through the streets of contiguous cities waist-deep in turbulent water, attempting to rescue the contents of their one-story homes, you will have a fair idea of what is going on in the Wuhan today.

The Yangtze is a mighty stream; a mighty aid to commerce when it is well behaved, a mighty terror to the denizens of its valley when it goes on a rampage. The Great river starts in a number of small streams in the Tibetan mountains, at a height of 16,000 feet; winds south and then northeast through the Yunnan and Szechuan hills; and, finally, after breaking from the mountains, cuts almost due east through the heart of China and empties into the sea close by Shanghai, after a journey of more than 3,000 miles. When the melting snow on its native mountain peaks is joined by heavy rains in its own valley and the valleys of its larger affluents, a flood of more or less consequence results. This season the river has overflowed its banks along its lower reaches and turned into a sea the most populous valley in the world.

SUCCESS

Doubtless good fortune has followed trans-Atlantic fliers this summer, and has been a factor in assisting all of the five planes which have actually taken off to reach their immediate destinations without mishap. But that is not the whole of the story by any means.

Everywhere long flights have been accomplished with an extraordinary minimum of actual disaster, and the Boardman and Polando hop from New York to Istanbul was of such magnitude that a successful, non-stop trans-Atlantic trip looms as one of the practical undertakings of the near future. The distance from the American Pacific coast to Yokohama is less than one thousand miles over the achievement of the travelers to the Turkish capital.

The facts are that great advance has been made by designers and engineers in producing durable, safe and efficient planes with a wide cruising range, and that fliers have been achieving new experience and skill.

It may be some time before trans-oceanic passenger routes become established, but the eye of faith can see that they are much less a matter of the distant future than appeared to be the case even a year ago.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—What few New Yorkers know:

That more visitors to Grant's Tomb inquire about "the grave of the amiable child," which is nearby, than ask the principal items of interest in connection with the President's memorial. . . . But nobody knows the answers for sure. . . .

That despite the fact that visiting motorists unfamiliar with local ordinances come to town by the thousands, native New Yorkers are responsible for more auto accidents, proportionally, than the visitors. . . .

That Gar Wood, the speedboat king, in town not long ago, told friends he believed the maximum had been reached in size for marine racing engines, together with virtual perfection in hull design—although he is tinkering with a mammoth new power plant for his Miss America craft next year. . . .

That Magistrate Gottlieb, of Yorkville Court here, sometimes "fines himself" $2 when a man is brought before him for sleeping in Central Park—giving the money to the defendant, and that last week he dispensed $45 in this fashion. . . .

The Sing Sing prisoners now are driven to the Administration Building in a private motorbus on visiting days. . . .

That it is incorrect to refer to a native of Scotland as a "Scotchman," "Scotlan," being the word, and "Scotch" being the designation only for what comes in bottles. . . .

That, in this dripping hamlet, it is currently impossible—well, almost impossible—to find potable beer, due to the closing of two big breweries recently which were flooding the city with 360,000 gallons daily. . . .

That Staten Island Borough employees now get paid off from armored cars on street corners, in the belief that holdup artists prefer at least semi-privacy for their work. . . .

That society folk who own vast estates at Newport, R. I.—the "millionaires' colony"—are now going into business to make operating expenses if possible. Care takers of the Robert Goetz showplace advertise cut flowers, hothouse grapes, netelaries; Mrs. Moses Taylor, whose father willed her $110,000,000, sends her tenants into the city with milk, poultry and the like every day. . . .

NO ESCAPE

Minna Gombell, the Fox discovery, would have laughed at you two years ago if you mentioned a talkie career for her. She wanted to be a doctor and pored nightly over her pre-med books. Her father is the well-known Dr. Henry Salter, of John Hopkins. But at a family conference she was convinced—what with recent initiation to dissecting rooms and all—that being a physician was no career for a pretty and sensitive girl.

So she took a flier to Hollywood, and, having some stage experience, she landed a contract. Her first picture was by sheer accident, "Doctor's Wives." Her next, "Bad Girl," soon to be released and packed with hospital stuff!

You will believe this yarn from the passport desk down in the Treasury Building on Wall Street if you know some of the other odd things which happen daily in this loony town.

WICKERSHAM FINDINGS OF PRISON CONDITIONS VIEWED OF REAL VALUE

WASHINGTON.—Fully as harsh things have been said of American prisons, many a time and often before, as those contained in the Wickersham commission's recent report to President Hoover on "penal institutions, probation and parole."

Hitherto, however, these denunciations invariably have been discounted, because their authors were popularly considered unduly sympathetic toward criminals, or mushily sentimental, anyway.

The Wickersham report, on the other hand, cannot be regarded as otherwise than authoritative. It rests largely, to be sure, upon the testimony of some of the same reformers who, hitherto, have been pooh-poohed, but this time the charges they make have the weight of a presidential commission's endorsement back of them.

Taken by itself, the report is an exceedingly fine piece of work.

It reveals the fact, to be sure, that the country's prisons, on an average, are 69.9 per cent over-full; one might inquire why the commission, as a general crime investigating body, fails to account satisfactorily for so much more crime—out of all proportion to the increase in population.

Nevertheless, this particular report does not attempt to analyze, but simply states conditions, and it does that with admirable vigor.

It is by far the most valuable of the commission's reports, in short, that the White House has made public yet. The one relating to the treatment of juvenile offenders in federal institutions is perhaps as good, in so far as it goes, but it does not cover so much ground.

State as well as federal prison managements are dealt with in the investigators' latest findings, in a manner that already has started a few of explanations from governors and penitentiary boards in every direction.

Naturally they would prefer to contradict outright, or ignore, or ridicule the idea of treating desperate lawbreakers humanely, as in the past, when complaints have come from unofficial sources, but the Wickersham arraignment is not so easy to disregard or laugh off.

Overcrowding, indeed, is rather freely admitted, but no state likes to plead guilty to the actual torture of convicts under the name of discipline, and the commission's impartial listing of the worst offenders in this respect evidently has started officials squirming at the capitals of a number of commonwealths which heretofore have considered themselves civilized because of their employment only of such up-to-date punishments as the "water cure" instead of the old-fashioned rack and thumbscrews.

Director Sanford Bates of the bureau of federal prisons (to whom, by the way, the Wickersham commission was indebted for much of its information) makes out a tolerably convincing case, it is true, for the energy with which the United States government is pushing its program for modern, sanitary quarters adequately to accommodate its rapidly-growing army of captives.

The answers furnished by state functionaries do not so satisfactorily dispose of the commission's criticisms.

Some announce the launching of investigation, there are a few denials and, in several instances, the claim is made that improvements have been effected since the commission conducted its inquiry, but no detailed showings of anything that really has been done are forthcoming thus far.

Folk responsible for prison managements manifestly are perturbed.

How long their uneasiness will last, or whether it will lead to any genuine improvement, appears to depend on the persistency of public interest and the strength of public demand for correction of the abuses disclosed by the Wickersham commission.

Perhaps the hardest problem left by the presidential investigators, for penal experts to solve, was contained in their reference to the "popular fallacy" that prison inmates can be kept employed without competing with free labor. That their employment is virtually essential to their own welfare is agreed with absolute unanimity.

Equally unanimous is the agreement in labor circles that their product must not compete with outside workers.

Egg Noodles and Ham in Casserole

Vegetable Salad Summer Squash
Berry Pie Iced or Hot Coffee

Serve noodles with meat instead of potatoes occasionally. To get best results in cooking noodles, place contents of one package—in case you buy instead of making them—in two or three quarts of salted boiling water and boil rapidly until tender (about 15 minutes). Do not cover cooking utensil while boiling. Drain in colander.

Today's Recipes

Egg Noodles and Ham in Casserole—One five-ounce package egg noodles, one slice ham (one-third inch thick), one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Garden Convenience
Make a bag like an envelope of oil-cloth, large enough to hold an old pair of rubbers and a 10-cent pair of scissors. Hang conveniently in your garden and see how many steps are saved running to the house after scissors and rubbers.

Labels

Label jelly and jam like on grocery shelf and partition with cardboard, placing leftovers in front so it can be used first if desired.

Cocoa syrup is convenient to keep on hand, too. Cook cocoa with a little sugar and enough water to make a thick syrup, for about eight minutes. Cool and use one tablespoon for each cup of cocoa, or for mocha drink.

Coffee cubes frozen in the refrigerator tray are a bit different for serving with iced cocoa or coffee. They give an added flavor.

When the innersoles of your favorite bedroom slippers become shabby, tear them out and replace with new ones which can be quickly made from a discarded felt hat. Glue them in lightly.

The success of the salad depends largely upon the salad dressing, and the salad dressing almost altogether on the seasonings and the flavorings used. The purpose of the salad dressing is to lighten and bring out the taste of the neutral fruits, vegetables and meats. Therefore make your salad dressing with care and vary its flavor to blend with the salad ingredients.

Milk Sick Disease Is Now Rare

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Milk Sickness
Here is a very interesting disease and fortunately rare. It is the poisoning of humans with a vegetable poison which is contained in the milk of cows who have grazed on certain plants.

It is so rare that many physicians have never seen a case. I heard a physician lecture on the subject last year before the Illinois State Medical association. He had been lecturing on the subject many years, trying to impress people with the dangers of the disease and the necessity of destroying the weeds which cause it.

These are two plants—the white snakeroot and the rayless goldenrod. The poison they contain has been named trematol. It causes a serious state of illness in both cattle and man. In cattle the disease is called the trembles, on account of the incessant twitching and trembling from cramping the milk or eating butter, cheese or the meat of poisoned cows. The poison is destroyed by heat, but not by the heat reached in pasteurization of milk.

White snake root grows mostly in wooded country. It does not grow well in bright sunlight. When trees and undergrowth are cut out enough to allow blue grass to grow, the grass will drive out the snake root. It grows abundantly in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys as far east as North Carolina. The rayless goldenrod is an inhabitant of the plains of Colorado, Texas and the southwest.

The disease occurs only in those cattle which are allowed to graze widely and in unselected pasture lands. It is a rare disease nowadays and education of the public and the dairy farmer has done much to cut down the incidence. The early settlers of the Middle West, however, were often poisoned. Herndon, in his "Life of Lincoln," says:

"In the fall of 1818 the scantily settled region in the vicinity of Pigeon Creek (Indiana)—where the Lincolns lived—suffered a visitation of that dread disease common in the West in the early days and known in the vernacular of the early days as milk-sick! . . . Abe's mother had fallen a victim of the insidious disease. Her sufferings, however, were destined to be of brief duration. Within a week she, too, rested from her labors."

It is certainly one of the queerest and most mysterious of human diseases. I have often thought that a good detective story could be written around it. In this story the villain would feed the family cow of his victim some white snake root and in this way accomplish the desired dispatch. Such a crime would stagger the powers of even Philo Vance. I do not write detective stories myself, so turn the idea over to the proper practitioners.

Editors Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Just Imagine Her Embarrassment!

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MADAM: I am a stenographer in a real estate office and what I wish to know is this: Is it correct for the employer to introduce his stenographer and private secretary to his clients, or to simply ignore the matter?"

"My boss does not introduce me to his customer, and it is my idea that he should. Of course I do not mean that he should take the time to introduce me to every one that comes in for but a second only, but for those that really come in for a conference of importance. An office girl can do so much to aid her employer if she has been introduced by being friendly and congenial and able to recognize him by name. This she can hardly do if she has not been introduced."

"Moreover, when a stranger comes into the office I feel silly to speak to the man when I do not know him (after he has spoken to the boss) and I feel silly not to speak to him. So what shall I do and just what is the proper thing for both the boss and myself to do?"

Take it for granted that you are to be friendly with anyone who does business with your boss whether you are introduced to him or not, Rosie. It is not customary to introduce the stenographer to the customers except on special occasions. She is part of the office equipment, you know, and is supposed to be as efficient and impersonal as the telephone and typewriter. This is perfectly proper and should cause you no concern.

Try to learn the names of the important customers and call them by name. Try also to anticipate their needs when they come in and also those of your boss; or I should say, anticipate those of the boss primarily.

A pleasant-faced, friendly-mannered stenographer—not an effusive, flirtatious one you know—is a very great help to an ambitious business man.

HEART-BROKEN: I often wonder whether you girls who compare plain that your parents are so strict and beat you, really aren't using your imaginations just a wee bit? Of course a girl of 17 is altogether too old to be whipped.

The only thing you can do, if you are as unhappy as you say at home, is to wait another year until you are of age and then leave. You may find that freedom from family restraint does not make you as happy as you think it will.

DISAPPOINTED ME: Probably the boy you speak of is not ready to settle down and so goes with different girls, giving preference to none. You will have to accept his attitude and not encourage false hopes in yourself.

If you are as casual as he and are merely a good pal, making no demands on him, he may take you out more, and later come to care for you.

Boys who feel that they do not want to marry for a few years always shy away from a girl whose attitude seems to say they want him to "go steady." That way danger lies for them.

M. L. D.: You are pretty young to marry, but maybe you better as you love this young man and he loves you and you are so unhappy at home. At any rate, keep on refusing to marry the young man you don't care about.

IGNORED: If the boy friend "walked out" on you, you will have to wait until he makes up his mind to walk back again. I am afraid. As to the crowd, they will probably take you up again when you go with him again or with some other boy.

Pheasants may fail in the wild, even though they thrive in captivity; possibly due to the lack of some vitamin or mineral in the wild foods.

It is a wise idea to give your hair a weekly or fortnightly shampoo during the summer months. This will prevent the hair from becoming harsh and dry, and will help to keep it soft and glossy and young looking.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Cosmetics
Bunny: I think that a soft centre shade of powder, soft orange rouge and light lipstick would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Fat Ankles
Betty: It would be impossible for me to print my method of reducing and shaping the ankles in this brief space. The process, however, is fully outlined in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Relaxation
Helen: Take a warm, lazy bath, and drink a glass of warm milk before you retire. Relax completely when in bed. If this doesn't help, I'd advise you to consult a competent physician.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer every question by mail she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her article on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," ten cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

The cream of the horse flesh in the harness racing game is entered in the three-day Short Ship Circuit, meeting to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday this week at the Xenia fairgrounds.

The large number of nominations received for the five stake races and six class events presages keen competition over the half-mile oval. The big entry list is probably explained by the fact the local meeting will have little competition from other tracks, the only other meetings in progress this week in this locality being at Marion, O., and Muncie, Ind.

Harness race fans are looking forward with lively interest to witnessing the barrier system of starting in operation for the first time here.

Recognizing the fact that the barrier is possibly the coming thing in harness racing circles, the fair board management has decided to introduce the system at the local meeting.

The barrier device will be used for the opening day Wednesday afternoon and if it proves satisfactory, not only to horsemen but more particularly to the fans, the system will be continued for the remainder of the meeting. Should the races prove unattractive, however, with the barrier in use, the device will be discontinued Thursday and Friday.

Speculation is also rife on the subject of whether the local track record may be lowered or at least equaled.

Only one horse is deemed capable of accomplishing this feat, namely, Counterpart, eleven-year-old roan stallion from the stable of Dr. H. M. Marshall, veteran Urbana reinsman and Grand Circuit driver. The ancient grand circuit apprentice as good as ever, broke and broke the then existing track mark in the free-for-all race at the 1930 fair here, setting a new record of 2:04. Counterpart is again entered in the same event to be run off as the closing feature of the afternoon on the last day of the meet Friday.

Great interest is also expected to be manifested in the performance of Ray Henley, 2:05 1/4, Greene County bred and owned four-year-old pacer, nominated for the 2:14 pace, second fixture on Thursday's fair here. Eight speedsters are entered in this event.

Ray Henley, owned by George Hagler, south of Xenia, and campaigned by his son, Joe Hagler, was a sensation as a three-year-old. He won the three-year-old pace at the local fair last year in straight heats and the home folks will now have a chance to watch the wiggler wiggle as a four-year-old.

The pacer was brought home about three weeks ago by Trainer Hagler from Ellettsville, O., to be conditioned for his start here. Ray Henley, in his first start this year, set a new track record of 2:05 1/4 at Greenville, O.

FOODY LEGION POST
TO PLAY VETERANS
HERE ON SATURDAY

Foody Post, American Legion will engage the U. S. Veterans' Bureau of Cincinnati in a softball game on the Cox Field diamond here Saturday afternoon, play being called at 4 o'clock.

The Cincinnati team, supposed to be strong, lost a game, however, last week, dropping an 11 to 10 decision to Lebanon in ten innings.

Foody Post will be able to present a formidable lineup against the Veterans' Bureau. Either Herman Wells or Harry Williams will pitch with Tom McClellan or "Randy" Randall catching, "Atlas" Smith or "Chuck" Ervin on first, "Proff" Seal at second, "Brownie" Baldner at third, Jay Burnett at short, Paul Fuller, Christ, and Fred Lang patrolling the outfield.

The Cincinnati veterans' team plays with only nine players instead of ten constituting a team and this policy will be followed in the Saturday game here.

MERCHANTS TO OPEN
JAMESTOWN SERIES

With the 1931 semi-pro championship of Greene County at stake, the Xenia Merchants and the Jamestown Independents will open a three-game series Sunday afternoon on the Washington Park diamond.

The team first winning two games will be declared the series winner. The three games, if three are necessary will not be played on consecutive Sundays, however Manager Jess Chambliss announces the opener will be staged this Sunday on the Xenia diamond, and the second game will be played in about three weeks on the Jamestown diamond, marking the first away-from-home contest for the Merchants this season and for many years past. Should a third and deciding game be needed, the teams will decide later where it will be played.

Central Gains In American League Battle

DEFEATS ST. BRIGID
AFTER SPOTTING FOE
TO FOUR-RUN LEADHornick Given Poor Support.
Winners Hit Ball Hard

Overcoming a four-run lead, Central High's softball team moved to within half a game of first place in the American League by pounding out a 14 to 4 victory over the last-place St. Brigid team at Cox Field Tuesday night.

The two school boy teams met for the sixth and last time this season and the triumph enabled the Bucs to win the season's series from the parochial team by a margin of four games won and two lost.

Central spotted St. Brigid four runs in the first half of the opening inning. St. Brigid made a total of nine hits off Storer, winning pitcher, and five of these blows were grouped in the initial stanza. After this rally, the last-placers subsided at bat and obtained only four more bingles during the balance of the game. Blangy hurried the last two rounds for Central without allowing a hit or being scored upon.

The Bucs, fighting to gain the league leadership, wasted little time in evening the count. They mached the four-run St. Brigid scoring spree with a similar rally of their own in the last half of the first stanza, then assembled five hits along with a walk and a few errors to count six runs in the third inning. The winners gathered fourteen hits off "Larry" Hornick but the St. Brigid team gave an extraordinarily careless exhibition on defense.

Marvin Spahr, right fielder for the Bucs, continued his heavy hitting. In five times up he hit safely three times and twice reached base on errors. Joe Fletcher, St. Brigid shortstop, got three hits, all infield blows.

The Red Wings and Graham Paine, two teams that are not far separated in the National League standing, will clash Wednesday night. Lineups:

GOLF
GIRLSby GLENNA COLLETT
Women's National Golf Champion
Written for Central Press and The Gazette

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the tenth of a series of instructive golf articles written by Mrs. Glenna Collett Vane, national champion and America's best known woman golfer, for Central Press Association and The Gazette.

Number 10
TO BECOME a successful match player you must develop the so-called "competitive mind."

I have found there are three necessary qualities for this:

1. Love of combat.
2. Calmness under fire.
3. Courage.

Men are apt to be better competitive golfers than women. They are, usually, born with it.

Glenna Collett fighters. Theirs by inheritance is the combative spirit.

As to being calm under fire, it takes a cool player to accept bad breaks along with the good. You must be able to do this, calmly, to succeed.

Even the cool players must apply themselves to the immediate task, to the shot at hand, forgetting the mistakes of a few moments ago and not worrying about the future.

The third attribute—fearlessness—I think, is obligatory, too. When fear grips the mind, the muscles stiffen. That is a law in competition not to be forgotten. A bad case of stage fright has lost many an important golf match.

In our next golf chat I'll try to tell you how to "play the wind" on a breezy day.

COUNTY FAIR RACE
ENTRIES

Four races, including a three-year-old trotting stake, make up Thursday afternoon's harness program at the Greene County Fair Shortship Circuit meeting.

The opening event, the 2:14 trot worth $400, has nine entries, pointing to a small but well-balanced field, while the next race, the 2:14 pace valued at $400 in which Ray Henley, sensational local speedster is entered, has eight nominations. Big fields will characterize the closing two events, the stake race for a $500 purse having twenty-four entries and the 2:22 pace worth $300 having twenty-two horses entered. The entry list for Thursday's races follows:

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

Central Press Sports Editor
THE CLOUD of criticism currently engulfing major league umpires at the present moment smells of these nasal organs as though might contain a large quantity of gas.

Always, more or less, inclined to regard the embattled arbiters of baseball in a kindly light, your correspondent finds it hard to believe that the brand of umpiring is as bad as it's supposed to be.

There is a strong suspicion that the blue clad solomons are actually just the victims of another kind of depression, the failure of seven ball clubs in each league to make pennant races of what now are only chases with the horses (the A's and the Cards) plenty of paranses ahead of the hounds.

In hectic flag campaigns there is little or no criticism of umpiring as a rule. Ambitious managers are too busy to split hairs over every possible mistake. Why beef to day when tomorrow a win might gain first place?

But when the leading club fades out of sight ahead, despite desperate efforts of his own team to catch up, the bench boss is liable to become crochety and crabbed to be only too eager to shift some of his own burdens onto the shoulders in blue.

A BASEBALL MANAGER, harassed by a carping home crowd, has but to squawk at the first dubious decision to set the grandstand volving swinging off on its own trail and set out in full cry after the offending umpire.

Poor umpires and dishonest umpires have existed and may continue to crop up. But as a class, the vast majority are only earning their keep as best they know how.

On his own efficiency and high standard of accuracy rests an umpire's job. He must make hundreds of decisions a day, when he is behind the plate, and always before a hostile or, at best, suspicious audience.

What saps umpires would be if they risked their jobs by deliberately involving wrong decisions to rile the crowd. Yet, immediately after a bad decision, at least two-thirds of any baseball crowd, normally average in mentality, will take an oath that they know the better and deliberate.

Why anyone should choose an umpire's career is as hard to understand as why people run for the presidency of Mexico. But there's a little hate stored away in the best of us, and we must have a common enemy on which to vent our pet hate. It might as well be at an umpire as any other object.

Germany will send thirty ski stars to the Olympic games. Not big news, but its cooling to think about.

Eleanor Egg, dancing teacher, wins track meet event. It was the 100-yard dash and not, as you suppose, the hop, skip and jump.

FEDERAL BUILDING
PROGRAM SPEEDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Hoover today made public a report on progress of the federal building program which showed that on July 15, fifty-seven buildings, costing $25,326,876, had actually been completed. This represented completion of six new buildings since May 15.

As of July 15, 192 contracts had been let, with a total value of $135,637,366. This meant forty-two new contracts, totaling a little over $15,000,000, had been let since May 15.

Five new sites were acquired, plans completed and arrangements being made to let contracts in the two-month period, bringing the total on July 15 to sixty-one, with a value of $44,249,800.

In addition two other sites were acquired, but plans only partly completed.

ATTEMPTS TO SET
NEW SPEED RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—James Goodwin Hall, New York speed flyer, hopped off from Roosevelt Field today in an attempt to set a new record for a New York-Chicago flight. Hall left at 5:17 o'clock (Columbus time) this morning.

Hall said if he had good luck, he would attempt to return to New York today, trying for a round-trip record.

CONSTRUCTION OF WILL SOUGHT; WIFE SEEKING DIVORCE

A petition seeking to have the court construe the will of the late Julia C. Sterrett, who died December 20, 1929, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Lounette Sterrett, as trustee under the will, against Bessie and Lounette Sterrett.

The petition explains the decedent devised her property in trust to the plaintiff to be used for the benefit and support of Bessie Sterrett and that the trustee was authorized under terms of the document to exercise her own judgment in handling the property to the best interests of Bessie.

Upon the death of Bessie Sterrett the property, the will provides, is to pass to the trustee.

The plaintiff asserts she is in doubt as to the true meaning of the will, particularly as to whether the income only from the property should be used for the benefit of Bessie Sterrett, and asks that a guardian be appointed to protect Bessie's interests. Miller and Finney are the plaintiff's attorneys.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

The declaration that her husband has refused to furnish her a home, except for two months, since their marriage March 3, 1928, and that he bought her only one garment during their married life is contained in a divorce action filed by Mildred Masse against Arthur Masse, 217 High St. The plaintiff asks to be restored to her maiden name of Walker. They have one child, Robert, 3.

CONTRACT VALID

The plaintiffs have a valid oral contract of purchase with the defendants for a lot on E. Main St., according to a ruling favorable to Warren and Leona Roberts in a suit filed against William H. and Ida Shields. The court decided the plaintiffs, upon payment of $1,081, balance due on the purchase price, are entitled to receive a deed to the real estate from the defendants.

DISMISS SUIT

On application of the plaintiff, the case of Hazel Johnson against Glenn Johnson has been dismissed.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BROADWAY BRIDE

By ETHELDA BEDFORD, Author of "DEAR DIARY"
© 1931 CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

READ THIS FIRST:
Nita and Natalie Dudley, orphaned small town sisters, both attractive, are on their way to New York, intent on bettering themselves. Nita is the smart girl of today. Natalie is the more reserved, younger. She wonders where Nita has obtained money for the trip, and besides, she is carrying or child. Nita shocks Natalie by intimating that she obtained the money from Natalie's former employer. Natalie is concerned, hurt. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER 2

"WE'LL NEVER, never go back to dear old Truesdale. Blah for Truesdale!"

Nita's decision, punctuated by a snap of her pink-nailed fingers, was spoken to her sister whose eyes fastened to the window's mirrored pane where dots of lights and flying telegraph poles slithered past hurriedly.

"We're off at last. It seems stranger every time I think of it." The dancing dots and silhouettes still held Natalie's eyes. She sat silently, shielded as if by a strange high wall which the talkative Nita could not possibly penetrate. . . . A wall, high and dark, that shut in memories so close their contact, hurt.

She had been thinking, seemingly ignoring her sister's chatter for many miles as the train sped along toward New York. Her thoughts invariably centered about Nita and their most recent conversation. . . . "I'll never rest until you have told me how you got all of that money, Nita," Natalie had urged her sister over and over for some more sensible explanation.

"You're such a goody-goody," Nita had countered, "that after I tell you you probably won't rest, either. You have a way of suspecting the worst possible happening, you know."

But finally it had all come out. And now Natalie was reviewing it all over again in her mind. . . . Nita had borrowed money from Richard Marlen. . . . $500 to tide them over until they found jobs. . . . tickets to take them to New York. . . . and, he had sent Nita orchids!

Once, Natalie remembered a little amused in spite of herself, Richard Marlen had stopped in the midst of dictating a letter. He took Natalie's hand and said: Look at me, you lovely child, and his voice was deep and pleasing. "You're so pretty."

She had been thankful for the ring of the telephone just then. But he never finished dictating that letter. She had crossed to where her hat and coat hung in his office and put them on. He rushed over and tried to prevent her going, although she had worked an hour longer than customary that day.

"Don't go," he said, "Natalie. . . I've never called you that before. Natalie, don't go. Won't you have dinner with me here in the office?"

He thought she was fibbing when she said: "Nita is waiting in the hall for me, Mr. Marlen."

"You may call me Richard," he said, smiling his very nice smile. "Thank you, though, just the same."

"Can't you telephone your sister and tell her you are detained? She has probably imagined as much, anyway, and he got her home. She could tell by his eyes that he thought she had only made up her excuse."

Then Nita had come in and saved the situation. He had seemed to take to Nita right away, laughing at her wise cracks. He insisted on driving them both home in his car, and somehow arranged it so that Nita sat next to him.

Once she had imagined she heard him whisper something to Nita. . . . Nita never lost her head or a chance to wise crack when such things happened to her. She always managed to make the most of them, it seemed to Natalie. Now as she thought it all over she was certain that Nita got the idea to borrow from Richard Marlen that very afternoon. Nita carried out her ideas sparing no one.

Now she said to Nita: "So you did go out with Richard Marlen, after all! I'll bet it was that night you borrowed my red beret and coat and refused to tell me where you were going."

"Oh, don't look at me as if I'd sold my soul for $500 cash down and two tickets to New York," she said as she settled back in the seat more comfortably.

Natalie had never made that claim. "He would never have sent those orchids darling. You don't know a thing about me, Natalie."

"Remember this," Nita advised, "men do not decorate a conquered romance. Only an anticipated one." But what did Richard Marlen think. That worried Natalie, even now that they had left Truesdale. Marlen was the good-looking, smiling, broad-shouldered blonde type that girls turned fools over to. She feared he was the kind to talk about girls that gave him the slightest reason.

"Nita, what in the world will he think of you, if it'll take us years to pay back all that money." Nita took out a silver compact from a bag, leisurely opened it and studied her features in its tiny mirror before dusting her tiny, well-modeled nose with powder.

"He's not thinking," declared Nita, "he's figured it all out—that we are to be perfect flops in New York and come creeping back home to Truesdale, dragging our futures and our hopes behind us."

"Then," put in Natalie, "I suppose he calculates he will hold first mortgage on what's left of us. What'll he do, take his pick."

"No doubt darling," Nita responded quickly. "No doubt at all. How quickly you figure our cheerful endings for us. A perfect optimist. But the hitch is—we won't come back!"

Natalie wasn't so certain. She wondered aloud things Nita didn't bother to think silently. . . . could they find jobs in New York, a cheap place to live. . . . would New York be too strange, too cold, too big. . . .

"Pardon your wet glove," smirked Nita. "Somebody has to look on the practical side."

"I'd rather look at the nice-eyed fellow across the aisle. 'Pear to me he'd flirt.'"

"Go to it," Natalie told her. "You'd like to flirt with him yourself," Nita smiled. "Only, you're afraid!"

Nita was so accusative, even in fun. Afraid. "Natalie, you know what I think about your. . . I think you are afraid of life."

"You would think up something or other for an argument." "No, actually. Tell me. What would you do if a boy got fresh?" Nita questioned. "Punny, isn't it, come to think of it we never have had dates together. I never have known of a fellow being fresh with you. I wonder, though, what would you do?"

"Slap his face."

"What, when life doesn't treat you right and you feel it is making you stoop shouldered you ought to strike back. That's the way I feel."

"What do you know about life, Nita? You're only two years older than I am. There's nothing wrong with your shoulders, thank you," Natalie came back.

That was how their arguments usually ended. "This trip to New York is the biggest thing you've ever had out of life," Nita began again. "And you wouldn't have had this—only that I went out and took for you what you were not game enough to take for yourself."

Then it seemed just another argument between the two mismatched sisters, but Natalie was to remember every word Nita said, remember months later and groan aloud when she did.

The gossip, disloyal little town of Truesdale, which they had left miles behind them, had woven odd but quite definite patterns into the fiber of their make up.

Nita was determined to push ahead, with visions of a big career, but she doubted it. It took Nita's brand of pluck to look bravely out of the window of the racing train and say:

"I can croon myself to fame! All I need is a good chance. Why, the first day I get to New York I'll introduce myself to Rudy Vallee."

"And what good will that do you?" Natalie asked calmly. "Him, you mean?" "Or, you?"

"Oh, you wouldn't understand," sighed Nita. "But it is contacts like that that count. Then I could say that I knew Rudy. Vallee when I meet Irving Berlin."

I was speaking with Rudy and Irving why. . . . Natalie did not think much of the idea apparently.

"You see, all right, you just like being like that," Nita went on.

That was Nita for you, though. Everything she attempted she first had a blue-print of it in her mind.

They became conscious of a steady stare from across the aisle. The nice-eyed young man had deserted his sports page and was giving them an appraising and approval gaze. They were to feel that masculine appraisal of their slim, long legs and high waisted bodies many times in the future.

This man, with shining black hair and very blue eyes, leaned across the aisle and proffered a magazine.

"It has a fine photograph of that crooner, Billy Lee. According to the statistics radio broadcasting schedules now devote less time to dance music than a year ago as now only 55 per cent of the daily programs are given to dance music where as last year at this time 66.1 per cent of the programs consisted of dance music."

Musical programs of all types took 63.5 per cent of all broadcast time and of

The curtains of mystery are lifting from RKO's big special, "Creation," in which prehistoric monsters will take life upon the screen.

The comeback of color-photography advances a step with the news that Paramount will use a 400-foot technicolor sequence in each pictorial new reel of the 1931-32 series. Technicolor officials insist their new process eliminates all grainy effects and produces true-to-life tints. Several of the subjects already have been shot. They include views of the training of polo ponies on a western ranch, the latest modes in table-china and closeups of gold fish farms.

Musicals also seem to be looking up. With Maurice Chevalier's "The Smiling Lieutenant" doing well here, Metro is producing "Flying High" and Radio is pushing forward Gershwin's "Girl Crazy" and Victor Schertzinger's "Marcheta." Wheeler and Woolsey will film the former as their next in place of "Peach of Reno" and Richard Dix and Irene Dunne will co-star in "Marcheta." The company may go to Spain for authentic atmosphere.

EMPLOYMENT FOR MANY

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 5.—Several hundred persons will receive employment as the result of the starting of construction of the new $500,000 Hammond city hall. Thousands of motorists on the way to the 1933 World's Fair at Chicago will pass the new building inasmuch as its site is on a paved road leading directly to Chicago.

MRS. HENDERSON, LATE SOCIAL DICTATOR, REIGNED FAIRLY

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The castle of the nation's social ruler is dark and gloomy; hiding the thoughts of the woman who lived there alone and for the last half century dictated to American and European society as freely as she gave orders to her servants—and was obeyed.

Death lifted the unofficial but internationally recognized crown from Mrs. John B. Henderson July 16 at Bar Harbor, Me., where she maintained a summer retreat during her latter years. Probably it will not be worn for some time for a present her veteran followers fail to indicate a single person who would attempt to continue Mrs. Henderson's reign.

"Of course somebody will take over Mrs. Henderson's post as arbiter," one society leader said. She indicated that the selection of a new ruler might come through an elimination process.

LOGO WEED MYSTERY Baffles Science; Hurts Livestock

TUCSON, Ariz.—You may know what makes the wild cat wild, but not even a scientist knows what makes the loco weed loco.

"We know the effect of the loco weed upon live stock," said Dr. William G. McGinnies, range ecologist at the University of Arizona, "but just what the constituents of the weed are, we have not been able to determine. Various apothecaries have been suggested, but they have all been proved wrong by further research.

"A cow or horse which starts eating loco weed becomes addicted to the habit as a human being becomes addicted to morphine or other dope. Cattle who are eating the weed will not stay with the herd, but stray off by themselves and it becomes almost impossible to drive them. They have the appearance of poor health, their coats become rough and their eyes glassy and staring. The effect is cumulative and if they are not taken away from the loco weed territory, they eventually will die.

"Cattle can be cured of eating loco weed," Dr. McGinnies went on, "if they are taken away from the place where it is obtainable and put on a diet of alfalfa or other hay. However, if they can ever get the weed again, they will go right back into their former habit. Usually cattle are taken away and butchered as soon as their loco eating proclivities become apparent. The weed has no effect upon the quality of the beef. Horses who have become addicted to the weed never recover.

"Eradication of loco is a very difficult problem on the range," Dr. McGinnies continued. "Digging it out seems to be the only way to get rid of it and the expense involved in that method makes it almost prohibitive.

CHARDON DWELLING BOASTS 118 YEARS

CHARDON, O., Aug. 5.—A residence building which is 118 years old and is still in condition for occupancy stands on King Memorial Highway in this village.

Records show the house, now occupied by M. E. Cooley and family, was completed in 1813 after three years of hard work.

Ox teams from Fairport Harbor hauled the bricks. The journey carrying lime for the bricks had to be made at night because of the extreme heat.

Sand for the bricks was obtained by pulverizing sand stone. Each brick was hand-made and the lathing is hand-split. Everything was made by hand, including the nails which hold the lath in place.

Within the building are five fireplaces, one in each room.

VEGETABLES WON'T PAY ALIMONY HERE

ELYRIA, O., Aug. 5.—Out of money or not, you cannot use vegetables to pay alimony while under jurisdiction of Lorain County Common Pleas Judge A. H. Webber.

The passage of this rule recently by Judge Webber followed the sentencing of Howard Walker, 20-year-old Amherst farmer, to five days in jail for contempt of court.

"I'm tired of the vegetable diet," Mrs. Viola Walker told the court. "When strawberries are ripe, he brings me strawberries, and when turnips are in season, he brings me turnips, but no money."

Walker admitted to the court that he brought the vegetables to his estranged wife because he had no cash and didn't want her to be hungry.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND UNVEILING PROGRAM SATURDAY

The ceremony of unveiling a memorial to Alexander Berryhill, one of the four Revolutionary War soldiers buried in the old Pioneer Cemetery, north of Bellbrook, will be held at 4:15 o'clock Saturday, August 8.

The program will open with the presentation of the Sons of the American Revolution official grave marker by Warder Crow, of Michigan, a great-grandson of the deceased soldier. The marker will be unveiled by Evelyn Berryhill, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berryhill, north of Bellbrook, a great-great granddaughter, and will be accepted by Attorney George H. Thorne, Xenia, former assistant attorney general of the United States.

Next on the program will be congratulatory messages from the Sons of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution chapters, after which the Turner Brothers quartet will sing the selection, "America Triumphant."

A local Boy Scout troop will be present in uniform and a fitting climax to the exercises will be furnished by the sounding of bugle call and taps and the firing of a salute by a cadet squad from the O. S. and S. O. Home.

An invitation is being extended by the committee in charge to the public to attend the ceremony.

Lips Sealed Since 1889 Reveal Story Of Tragedy

VIENNA, Aug. 5.—From the lips of the late Emperor Franz Josef's closest friend and confidante, came today a belated explanation of the tragic death of Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria, found lifeless by the side of his sweetheart in the hunting lodge of Mayerling forty-two years, ago.

Apparently desiring to end once and for all the heated controversy that has raged for decades over the manner in which the crown prince met his death, Frau Katharina Schratz, lifelong friend of Franz Josef, gave a detailed statement to the Vienna newspaper "Morgen," asserting that Rudolf took his own life after firing a bullet into the brain of his sweetheart, the beautiful Baroness Marie Vetsera.

Frau Schratz's statement was a dramatic augmentation of the official version of the tragedy given out by the Austro-Hungarian emperor the day after the shooting the monarch the morning the tragedy was discovered.

Franz Josef first attempted to disguise the tragedy, informing the crowned heads of Europe that his eldest son had died from a stroke, and later changed his version to one of accidental shooting. Finding both explanations were held in concealment, Franz Josef decided to tell the whole truth and announced the shooting was murder and suicide.

The controversy over the double tragedy recently was reopened by Prof. Friedrich Marx of the University of Bonn, who declared after lengthy research works that he was convinced Rudolf was slain by relatives of his sweetheart, seeking to take her away from him, and that the baroness was accidentally killed in the fray.

Frau Schratz's statement was the first she had made since the tragedy occurred in 1889.

WHITE POPULATION IS 108,864,207 IN STATES IS SHOWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The white population of the United States on April 1, 1930, aggregated 88.7 per cent of all persons living within the country, while the negro population made up 9.7 per cent of the total, the census bureau announced today.

Due to the falling birth rate and the restrictions on immigration the increase in the white population from 1920 to 1929 of 15.7 per cent was somewhat slower than during the preceding ten years when the gain was 16 per cent.

On the other hand the negro population from 1920 to 1930 showed an increase of 13.6 per cent, which compared with a gain of but 6.5 per cent the ten years prior to 1920.

Total population April 1, 1930 was 122,775,046 divided as follows: White, 108,864,207; negro, 11,891,143; Mexican, 1,422,533; Indian, 332,397; Chinese, 74,954; Japanese, 138,834; Filipino, 45,208; Hindu, 3,130; Korean, 18,860; all other 780.

OLD COINS BROUGHT OUT TO PAY TAXES

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Aug. 5.—Old coins and aged money are being brought to light from hidden caches as June taxes are being paid in Perry County, reports County Treasurer G. G. Milgate.

This tendency of persons to use their concealed "nest eggs" as tax money has been noted particularly this year. Many of the bills are old large denominations and decidedly good. Among them were twenty dollar yellow-back gold certificates rarely seen in circulation these days. Some of the money that is paid in is a bit musty and faded as though it might have been buried.

Others are tattered and worn. It is believed that many persons are hoarding and hiding their money instead of putting it into banks where it could continue in circulation.

MT. VERNON HIGHWAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—An important federal project is a great memorial highway from Washington's home at Mount Vernon on the Potomac River to the National Capital, 12 miles upstream. This is now being constructed under the supervision of the United States Bureau of Public Roads and will be ready for use in 1932.

GIANT PLANE STARTS FLIGHT NORTH

LINDBERGH'S COMPLETE HOP

LAND PLANE AT NORTHERN POST ON LONG TRIP

Good Weather Marks
1,100 Mile Trip From
Baker Lake

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Aug. 5.—Flying on schedule, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife landed here in their Lockheed Sirius amphibian at 3:05 a. m. (Pacific Standard time), today.

The flight from Baker Lake where they took off yesterday at 5:45 C. S. T., took slightly more than eleven hours.

The Lindberghs surprised this town on the Mackenzie River as their plane swooped down from the skies. No word had been received here on the rim of the Arctic of the take-off of the famous flyers from Baker Lake.

Dropping down from the muck of a northern twilight, Lindbergh and his wife were greeted by a chorus of howls from hundreds of husky dogs on the river bank as the big plane landed gracefully on the Mackenzie River.

As soon as word of their landing spread, the residents of this town turned out en masse to greet the great flyer and his wife.

Their plane was made fast to the river bank and as they stepped out, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh found themselves before a group of traders, trappers, mounted police, missionaries, several wireless operators and the few white women who reside here.

In the background were Indians and Eskimos who had trekked hundreds of miles from the wilderness to be in the town to see the famous flyer about whom they had heard so much.

The well-known Lindbergh smile flashed from the cockpit of the monoplane as it taxied to the bank. Mrs. Lindbergh, smiling happily, waved a greeting to the group on the bank.

Both flyers looked fresh and cheerful despite the grueling 1,100 miles of night flying over the Arctic wilderness. They supervised the mooring of the plane and then were taken over by the group of white people here who were ready to show them the hospitality of the Arctic.

The flyers experienced good weather on the flight over the barren north. Storms which swept the Arctic regions until yesterday subsided and no difficulty was experienced on the trip, Col. Lindbergh said.

In making the flight, another leg on their vacation trip from Washington to Tokyo, the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh passed over what many aviators consider the most dangerous portion of the journey.

THREE NEW YORK BANKS ARE CLOSED

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The state banking department today took possession of the business and property of three banks in this city. The institutions are:

The American Union Bank, The International-Madison Bank and Trust Company, The Times Square Trust Company and the Times Square Safe Deposit Company both of which are located at the same address in Seventh Ave.

State Superintendent of Banks Broderick said that in the case of the three banks they were taken over because of the non-liquid condition and depreciation in the value of assets. Therefore, he added, it is deemed unsafe and inexpedient to permit the institutions to continue in business.

AN OLD ESKIMO CUSTOM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Hoover, like the Eskimos, has a passion for gum drops. He even likes a particular brand.

This highly illuminating information was developed today when J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, called at the White House carrying under his arm what obviously was a box of candy.

"They are gum drops," he explained. "The President likes a special brand so before I left home last night I got a box to bring along to him."

GILBERT-CLAIRE MARRIAGE DISSOLVED

Ina Claire and John Gilbert

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 5.—The marriage of John Gilbert and Ina Claire stood dissolved today with Miss Claire declaring she 'couldn't live with him any more' and Jack asserting that "Miss Claire has been a lady through it all."

Gilbert was not present yesterday at the star chamber divorce session held by Superior Judge

Joseph P. Sproul. Miss Claire was there, however, as were Paul Bern, motion picture executive, and Stona Larson, the actress' secretary. The latter two were corroborating witnesses.

In record to a financial settlement, Gilbert issued a statement which declared that "she has been more than fair in every way and has refused all offers of a financial settlement from me."

PLOTTER SOUGHT IN ATTEMPT TO ROB $25,000 FROM BANKER

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—A man who police believed "read too many detective stories," was hunted today as the promoter of a dynamite plot to rob a local banker of $25,000. The plot was disclosed with the discovery of a cleverly constructed bomb in a parcel locker at a downtown bus terminal.

Together with the bomb police found a three-page hand-printed note outlining the plot in detail. The note included everything from the name of the intended victim and the identity of the plotter.

GOVERNOR WHITE IS GUEST AT CATHOLIC SOCIETY'S DINNER

Church Dignitaries Present; Election Features Meet

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—Having acted as hostesses to Governor George White and several church leaders at a banquet last night, 500 delegates and visitors to the fifteenth triennial convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus today plunged into an all-day program of business sessions.

Initiation of new members by the Columbus degree team tonight was to be the only exception to the outline of business meetings. Besides Governor White, those in attendance at last night's banquet included Rt. Rev. James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus; Monsignor S. P. Weisinger, Rev. George E. Gressler, Rev. Bernard P. Vogel, and Col. William M. Mumm.

On behalf of the state, Governor White welcomed the delegates to Ohio's capital and invited them to visit the statehouse and the governor's mansion on their sightseeing tour tomorrow.

Officials hoped to clear away most of the important business today, excepting the election, which is scheduled for Friday. The program tomorrow is filled with entertainment for the delegates.

With all the present officers listed as candidates for reelection and aspirants certain to be listed from other cities as opponents, pre-election plans today continued to occupy the chief attention of many of the delegates.

SEVENTY BUSHELS
MARYSVILLE, O., Aug. 5.—The largest yield of oats reported in Union County this year was that threshed by Herman Rauch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rauch on the Wolf farm in Union Twp. More than 700 bushels were threshed from ten acres of ground, averaging a little more than seventy bushels per acre. The oats were reported to be number one quality.

WEATHER SMILES AS COUNTY FAIR OPENS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

"Bigger And Better" Is
Promise Of Board
Officials

The ninety-second annual Greene County Fair, described by officials as "bigger and better than ever" this year, was inaugurated Wednesday under auspicious weather conditions.

With a warm sun beaming down out of a cloudless sky, one of the largest Wednesday crowds in the history of the yearly exposition was anticipated by members of the fair board.

Beginning in a modest way nearly a century ago, the fair has grown under the nurture of the agricultural society until it is today recognized as one of the best county fairs in the state. It continues to be a place where the predominant spirit is along the line of the development of agricultural interests and is the one place where agriculture reigns supreme and reveals its greatest appreciation.

One of the annual fair features again scheduled this year is a team pulling contest to be held Thursday and Friday in front of the grand stand.

The livestock and organization parade will take place Friday morning in front of the grand stand and prizes are offered as follows: beef breeds, first, $10; second, $5; dairy breeds, first, $10; second, $5; organization floats, first, $10; second, third and fourth $5 each. F. R. Turnbull, N. Y. Hunter and W. C. Smith are in charge.

Exhibits in all classes of livestock, clothing clubs, food clubs, girl's room club, flower clubs, potato clubs and vegetable garden clubs will be furnished by the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club department in charge of County Agent E. A. Drake, Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent, and H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent. More than 400 young people are entered in the various projects and they are competing with eager enthusiasm for the prizes offered, including $800 set aside for this purpose by the fair board. In addition, there will be a style show, with girls modeling dresses made by themselves; a contest to determine the healthiest boy and girl, dairy club judging contest and demonstration teams.

Premiums amounting to $50 are offered in the sheep department by each of the ten leading breeds in this section of Ohio by Walter St. John, member in charge.

In each of the following cattle classes, premiums totalling $160 are offered: Holsteins, Jerseys, Polled Jerseys and Guernsey dairy breeds; Aberdeen Angus, Galloways, Herefords, Shorthorns and Polled Durhams, beef breeds.

The swine department is in charge of J. E. Lewis and the premium list totals $162 for each of the ten leading breeds of hogs: Chinas, Duroc Jersey, Hampshire, Spotted Poland China and Chester White.

The following classification is offered for thirty-five breeds of poultry: cock, cockerel, hen and pullet, and young and old pen, consisting of one male and four females.

The art and needle work department is in charge of Mrs. L. H. Jones.

The Grange exhibit will be judged on a 100 point system. The prizes being a dollar a point less 10 per cent of the winnings.

BERLIN BANKS OPEN WITHOUT INCIDENT

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Absolute calm today featured reopening of Berlin's banks after a three week holiday enforced by government decree.

There were no signs of runs during the early hours, and although a large number of persons took advantage of the opportunity to withdraw funds, an equal number made new deposits.

The general attitude among the people was that money is at least as safe in the banks as at home, as in the event of inflation, hoarded money would be virtually thrown away.

While the government thought that the finances of the Reich were strong enough to permit reopening of the banks, it kept in force restrictions on the sale of foreign currencies and further announced that foreign exchange would be made available at the Reichsbank only for vital imports.

BULL CAST ASIDE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 5.—Charging he caused her mental anguish by fighting with her, the wife of "Bull" Montana, wrestler, boxer, and movie actor, today had filed a divorce action against him. Mrs. Montana, formerly Mary Poulson, married Montana two years ago when she was 23.

THREE KILLED IN RIOT OVER EVICTION ORDER

Eviction of a negro family for non-payment of rent resulted in a riot of several hundred negro protestors in Chicago during which three negroes were killed and three policemen injured. All police reserves in the city were called out. Above photo shows curious crowds looking over the scene of battle with policemen experiencing a hard time preserving order.

TROOPS SHUT DOWN OIL PRODUCTION TO FORCE HIGHER PRICE

Governor Enforces Order;
Seeking Dollar
Increase

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 5.—Striving to raise the price of petroleum to a profitable basis for the producers, Governor William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray today enforced his shutdown order throughout the oil fields by martial law.

Around a large number of the 3,108 listed oil wells producing more than twenty-five barrels a day, military zones were maintained by state militiamen. Stripper wells were not affected by the action.

Troops moved into the oil fields late yesterday to enforce the shutdown. There was no violence, and the closing of the wells was accomplished in the face of some of the major companies' threats to disregard the governor's order.

Cleopatra L. Murray, commissioned a lieutenant colonel by his uncle the Governor, was in charge of the guardsmen in the derricksprinkled territory.

Governor Murray issued his shutdown mandate under an Oklahoma statute never before invoked which prohibits oil production when the market price is below the "actual value." He asserted he would keep the wells closed until the price of oil has advanced at least $1 a barrel. The present price is from forty to fifty cents.

As long as the gubernatorial order stands more than 350,000 barrels of Oklahoma's present production of 425,000 barrels daily will be cut off. Governor Murray insisted his order would remain until the price comes up to $1, unless he is ordered to revoke his ruling by President Hoover or the United States Supreme Court.

Among the first wells to be closed yesterday were five of the Champlin Refining Co., and others of the Sinclair Co., near Oklahoma City. Since the Champlin wells were operating under federal court injunction, their closing may bring notice of Governor Murray's action to federal authorities.

BANDIT SOUGHT FOR SHOOTING OF THREE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 5.—A widespread search, participated in by police and private citizens, was launched here today to find the Negro bandit who shot and wounded three girls, robbed them, and held them captive for four hours.

Victims of the desperado were Augusta Williams, Nell Williams, and Jennie Wood. All three are prominent in Birmingham social circles.

THREE SWEEPED OUT TO SEA: CITY FLOODED BY CONTINUOUS RAIN

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Three men and a woman were swept out to sea and a large portion of Tampico was under three feet of water today as the result of two weeks of continuous rains in northern Mexico, according to dispatches received in Mexico City. The dispatches stated that the flood water of the Panuco, Tameles and other rivers had inundated 25,000 square kilometers in northern

HARRY SMITH NAMED DEPUTY TREASURER FOR GREENE COUNTY

HARRY SMITH

PETER ARNO BLAMED BY VANDERBILT FOR MARITAL TROUBLES

Claims He Actually Shot
At Artist In Reno,
Nevada

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5.—Further developments in the celebrated feud between Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and Peter Arno, were awaited today following the remarks dropped yesterday by the former just after he had been divorced by Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt.

"I hold Arno responsible for what has happened, and he has brought upon himself responsibility for anything that may occur in the future," said Vanderbilt.

This statement was issued while Mrs. Vanderbilt was seeing Judge B. F. Curlier at the courthouse. Mrs. Vanderbilt sat for ten minutes before the bench in company with her attorney, William Woodburn, and Vanderbilt's lawyer, Sam Platt. When she departed, she had her decree.

Since the case was heard behind locked doors, nothing was learned of Mrs. Vanderbilt's charges other than that she alleged "extreme cruelty." Vanderbilt did not contest the suit.

An "amicable" property settlement was reached, attorneys announced, but the details were not made known.

Vanderbilt yesterday declared that he had actually fired a revolver at Arno in a conflict resulting from the latter's alleged attentions to Mrs. Vanderbilt. Previously it was reported that Vanderbilt had chased the satiric artist with an unloaded gun.

Treasurer-Elect H. M. Van Pelt Announces Appointment

Appointment of Harry M. "Atlas" Smith, Paintersville grocer and prominent American Legion worker, as his chief deputy was announced Wednesday by Harold Van Pelt, county treasurer-elect who assumes office Sept. 7 to serve his first elective term of two years. Miss Helen Dodds, present treasurer, will retire from office after serving two consecutive terms.

Mr. Smith, who will succeed to the position now held by Mr. Van Pelt, is a past commander of Joseph Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion.

The son of M. S. Smith, formerly superintendent of the Greene County infirmary, he was graduated from Xenia Central High School in 1916. The following two years he attended Muskingum College, New Concord, O., after which he enlisted in the U. S. army in January, 1918, serving one and one-half years with the Sixth Division. He spent one year overseas during the late war.

For the last nine and one-half years he has been engaged in the grocery business at Paintersville. He is also a member of the Masonic Lodge.

AROUSES TOWN TO CHECK FIRE

Locomotive Whistle Saves
Village

GRAFTON, O., Aug. 5.—The shrieking whistle of a railroad train today aroused residents of this village in time to halt the spread of a raging fire which threatened to envelop the entire downtown section.

The blaze was extinguished after it had destroyed the George C. Spitzer Hardware Co. store and the Grafton Hotel. Loss was estimated at $38,000.

Noticing the flames, an engineer of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train which was passing through the village near the burning buildings, gave several sharp blasts on his locomotive whistle.

Mrs. Carl Mole, village telephone operator, was warned by the whistle and she phoned the sleeping residents. Mayor Frank Cousins called out of bed by Mrs. Mole, requested help from the Elyria fire department which sent a pumper to the scene.

EDISON IMPROVED

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5.—Although Thomas A. Edison spent a restless night, he was bright and cheerful this morning and seemed to be "slightly improved," his personal physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, announced today. Edison collapsed last Saturday and since then has been under the care of three physicians.

DEMOCRATS PICNIC

DAYTON, O., Aug. 5.—With Governor George White and U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley scheduled to be guests, Democrats from nine counties in this section today were to gather here for the Annual State Picnic of the Gem City Democratic Club.

GERMAN PLANE DO-X FOLLOWS SHORES OF BRAZIL TO NEW YORK

Perfect Take-Off Launches
Ship And
Passengers

By ROBERT G. ASPINALL,
I. N. S. Special Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931, by I. N. S.)
ABOARD THE DO-X, Aug. 5.—With her twelve engines beating rhythmically, the great German seaplane DO-X was skirting the verdant shores of Brazil this morning, soaring in the direction of Caravellas, the first stop on the way to New York.

To our right stretched the Atlantic, calm and blue, like a great mirror; to our left the luxuriant, many-colored tropical jungle. We were in high spirits and had not yet begun to feel the effects of the brilliant equatorial sun.

Our ship felt as solid as an ocean liner and we were able to move about freely without danger of upsetting the equilibrium of our craft.

All members of the crew and the eleven passengers, which included two women, had been told to be at the Quay Pharoux, at Rio de Janeiro, where the DO-X was moored, at 6 a. m. (4 a. m. Columbus time) in readiness for the take-off a half hour later.

The engines had been tested and the ship provisioned for the long northward passage. Captain Paul Berner lost no time in starting. Clarence Schildbauer, American pilot, was at the controls.

A member of the DO-X crew gave her the gun and the seaplane skimmed along the surface of the bay into the wind. Leaving a trail of white foam, she at length began to skip a little, then lifted beautifully into the air and headed over Rio. We started exactly on at schedule, 6.30 a. m. (4.30 a. m. E. S. T.).

Below we could see the streets filled with well-wishers for a successful voyage and the brilliant white buildings of the city. As a tribute to the hospitable city which had been the host of the DO-X since her arrival from across the Atlantic from Friedrichshafen, Captain Berner circled over it before turning north.

We were told that we should reach Caravellas about noon, in time for luncheon, but if we wished we could have sandwiches and drinks on board. As we have no kitchen, we shall have to rely on hotels at the places on our itinerary for hot food. After Caravellas the next stop on our schedule was Bahia. There the DO-X will stay overnight before proceeding towards Natal, Para, Paramaribo, Trinidad, San Juan and Miami.

Among the most enthusiastic passengers to board the DO-X at Rio were Mrs. Clara Adams of Taneyville, Pa., and "Miss Germany" of 1930. The latter is now Mrs. Doris Von Clausbruck, wife of one of our pilots.

Mrs. Adams has long been ardent. She was aboard the Graf Zeppelin when it set out from Friedrichshafen on a transatlantic voyage, but had to turn back when over Spain because of disabled engines.

On board also was Commander F. W. Hamer, representing the builders of the DO-X and "Archie" Dornier, engineer and brother of Dr. Claude Dornier, designer of the seaplane, which is the largest ever built.

Before leaving Rio, Herr Hamer issued a statement to the people of Rio thanking them for their hospitality and saying that he decided to take off today because it was the birthday of Bartolomeu Gusmao, Brazilian pioneer in aviation.

PEACE RESTORED BY POLICE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of police patrolled the streets of the "black belt" today, alert for any signs of disorder which might develop into a riot similar to that of Monday, in which three Negroes were slain.

Police Commissioner John Alecock meantime notified Communist agitators that if they incited further riots all leaders of the Communist party would be jailed. Monday's riot started over an attempt of a ballist to evict a penniless woman from her home.

It was announced that the twenty-one prisoners taken at the scene of the outbreak will be prosecuted on charges of inciting a riot and for contempt of court in resisting court order for eviction.

MONTGOMERY IS 70

NEW CONCORD, O., Aug. 5.—By conducting chapel in the summer school of Muskingum College, which he has served as president for twenty-seven years, Dr. J. Knox Montgomery today had celebrated his seventieth birthday. Dr. Montgomery is moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church and head of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

OCELOTS PROVIDE FUR FOR MILADY'S NEW FALL JACKETS

By ALICE LANGELEIR
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS—Every woman will fall for the little fur jackets this fall when she sees the cute ones that are being fashioned by the French designers.

The popularity of the summer jacket is undoubtedly going to carry on through the cooler season, but this does not mean an ultra-short one, for fur does not lend itself so readily to this extreme and in Paris, at least, one needs some protection.

Many kinds of fur are going to be used, such as black broad-tailcoat which is a cross between the two furs and has some of the virtues of each one, gray shaved lamb and razabul.

Maggy Rouff is showing a smart little leopard jacket worn with a bright green wool crepe skirt. The leather belt is of bright green and the scarf of the jacket is detachable.

"Ocelot" is also going to provide many a smart woman with a little jacket or coat. Ocelot is a small leopard cat, found in South America, remarkable for its beautiful markings and soft fur. It can make some handsome jackets.

Ermine is also going to be popular for the black and white combination has always been and always will be a favorite with the Parisienne. And it is likely that several of the designers will bring out special furs of their own, selecting a certain type of skin, dyeing it and treating it specially for their purposes. Broadtail and astrakhan will also make some pretty little jackets.

CONTRACTOR WORKS DOUBLE SHIFTS TO HURRY PAVING JOB

A force of about twenty-five men, working in two shifts from 6 a. m. to 3 p. m., is expected to rush to speedy completion the project of widening and remodeling eight and four-tenths miles of the Wilmington Pike, extending from Xenia to the Clinton County line.

The Republic Asphalt and Paving Co., Dayton, has the contract for the improvement and date set for completion of the work is November 1.

The highway is to be widened from fourteen to twenty feet with a three-foot strip of concrete on each side. The middle part, fourteen feet in width, will be given a new top coating of bituminous concrete.

The policy of working laborers in two shifts is expected to be continued until the hours of daylight dwindle to a point where only one shift will be practical. The portion of the road being improved is not expected to be entirely closed to traffic at any time, although it will not be open to travel during the daytime while the center part is being surface treated. In the evening, when the working day is ended, traffic will be permitted over the stretch.

OLD ENDENTURE IS FILED AT FREMONT

FREMONT, O., Aug. 5.—An indenture, transferring title of eighty acres of real estate in Sandusky township, dated September 6, 1854, has been filed for record in the offices of County Recorder A. H. Zahn. The indenture, although seventy-seven years old, is still in good condition and the writing, all in ink, is plainly visible.

The edges of the indenture have not yellowed with age, nor are the folds of the paper badly worn, showing the document was seldom opened since it was filed out.

The indenture was made out by Judge John Bell, of probate court, an office created in 1852, later being consolidated with the office of common pleas judge, over which Judge Bell also ruled. The land involved in the sale was sold by County Treasurer Oliver McIntyre in the January term of court in 1854 to justify a claim of delinquent taxes against the property involved. No consideration was given. County Auditor Horace Clark sold the property to Joseph Miller, assignee of the estate of B. J. Bartlett.

An indenture in legal parlance is a deed, the same being derived, according to Probate Judge Robert Gabel from the fact that "when transfers of real estate are made, the deed is indented or cut in two pieces, the cut being made in irregular lines. One piece is given the grantee and the other the grantor. When full title is gained, both grantor and grantee meet, and the deed is placed together."

The deeds were cut, it is believed, to prevent changes being made in either half of the deed, and papers substituted. The indenture now filed in the records office was not cut.

HILL BEING SLICED AGAIN BY PROGRESS

LANCASTER, O., Aug. 5.—Shimp's hill, an old Fairfield County landmark, is being cut down again.

When the Baltimore road was re-routed to pass over the top of the hill many years ago, it was cut down thirty-five feet.

Now, with plans being made to pave the road, the hill is being reduced again, this time by eighteen feet. The hill top is of solid rock.

PHEASANTS RECEIVED
LONDON, O., Aug. 5.—J. H. Umbenhauer, Madison County deputy game protector, reports the receipt of 180 Hungarian pheasants from Tom Nash, manager of the Champaign County game farm near Urbana.

CROSS-EYED CONFESSIONS

THE STORY of how I wrecked my life is so unusual I feel that I should preface it with a few bits of information. I don't know whether or not my readers are acquainted with some of the finer points of an abattoir, but every up-to-date meat packing establishment has what they call a "ham Smeller." It's a specially trained expert who can tell by a couple of sniffs whether a ham has been properly cured or not.

Otto, my fiancée, was such an artist, and no man living ever had a finer or more sensitive nose. Even when handicapped by a terrible cold, Otto could tell the good hams from the bad ones.

It was Otto's wonderful nose that intrigued me, and I would stand in that packing house for hours watching him sniffing here and sniffing there. I soon weakened, and my admiration for this great gift of his led me to become his bride.

We were married in the cold meat department of the packing plant. Our many friends had daintily arranged the sausages and frankfurters into artistic letters until they looked like "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

The Wedding Shower

After the wedding, instead of using rice and confetti, the guests showered us with slices of salami, headcheese and liverwurst. It was a beautiful ceremony and I, as the bride, was the envy of every girl in the slaughter house.

We moved to our own little bungalow in the suburbs and my husband insisted upon my quitting my job. He said I was so sweet that I distracted him when he was trying to sniff hams. He was just that kind of a man. He wouldn't even let love interfere with his work.

Everything went along wonderfully for a few months until one of the ham smellers died and Otto had to take over his sniffing. He would sniff from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10 or 11 o'clock at night. If there is such a thing as reincarnation, I'm sure that Otto will come back to earth as a bloodhound.

Otto's added hours left me with lots of idle time on my hands, and instead of improving myself by listening to the radio or working crossword puzzles, I found myself seeking the company of other men. I can't yet understand how I could have done such a thing, as Otto was the kindest and most lovable husband in the world. Many a time he would sniff twice as fast so that he could get home earlier to me, but it didn't do any good. The faster he'd sniff the more he'd have to do. He was already doing more sniffing with his small nose than the boss did with a beak three times as large.

Smellers Are Born

Beautiful schools and fine colleges may be all right for learning medicine or engineering, and the correspondence course can talk all they want, but ham smellers are born and not made.

While I appreciated Otto's un-failing devotion, it didn't stop me from flirting now and then. I ogled and ogled and it wasn't long until my ogling got me into a predicament which I will remember to my dying day.

There was a cheap third-rate vaudeville theater in our neighborhood, where I used to go every Saturday night. I always sat in the front row and one evening an actor up on the stage made eyes at me and I returned his winks. One sly glance led to another and it wasn't long before I found myself meeting him at the stage door. This would have been bad enough, but I made it worse by inviting him to my house and entertaining him while Otto was slaving away at the packing plant.

I can remember it as though it were yesterday. This actor and I were sitting on the sofa when we heard footsteps coming up the walk. At first I thought it was the milkman, but then I recalled that I had had a fight with him and weren't speaking to each other.

Horrible Thought!

It then flashed through my brain that maybe Otto had knocked off early at the slaughter house and was getting home a couple of hours ahead of time. A second later I knew I was right because I could hear the dog howl as Otto kicked him while coming up the walk. I was petrified, but I didn't lose my head. Pulling open the closet door I motioned to my boy friend to go in there and hide. He had no sooner secreted himself in the closet when the front door swung open and my husband entered the room. I immediately started to complain and bawl him out as though nothing had happened. He kissed me and told me he had had a hard day at the packing plant and wanted to go upstairs and give his nose a rest, when all of a sudden he started sniffing.

First he sniffed on one side of the room and then on the other. Then, grabbing me by the shoulder, he said, "Marie!—I smell HAM—and not a particularly good one, either."

True to Form

Straight to the closet he went, opened the door and shined a flashlight in Basil's face. Basil, an actor to his finger tips, took three bows and made his exit.

When Otto was convinced that Basil had been a gentleman in every respect and treated me with nothing but courtesy, he was furious. "I could forgive you, dear, if the actor had made some advances to you, tried to hold your hand or kiss you, but it will ruin me in my profession, if it ever leaks out that you brought a ham into my home that wasn't even FRESH."

Of course Otto and I could not go

on after that, but if the story of how I wrecked my life serves as a warning to other girls in a sausage factory I will consider my mistake well worth while.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Clothes are going to be an adventure this year.

Widely have the fashion designers borrowed from the past, and by clever adaptation have incorporated fashion highlights of other days into clothes that are ultra-modern in their taste, beauty and harmonious relationship with the world of today.

The general acceptance of the model known as the Empress Eugenie has paved the way for picturesque clothes. In truth, the Eugenie is indeed a revolutionary hat. For it has made necessary a complete revolution in the general silhouette. Thus, the fullness will be above the waist, especially for those coats designed for street wear. The flared skirt for coats and suits will give way to the wrap-around effect to accompany bodice fullness. Tiny muffs will be featured with many of the new coats and fur trimmed suits. Fur

NEW CONCORD, O., Aug. 5.—Even water holds an additional horror for Foster Pyle of near here after his narrow escape from death.

Seeking to determine why a hissing sound was coming from the water well on his farm, Pyle lighted a match at the well rim and a terrific explosion followed, burning him severely. Examination showed that natural gas had forced its way through the well wall and was escaping from the mouth of the shaft.

Elizabeth Luce, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luce, Hill St., who underwent an operation for appendicitis at McClellan Hospital Saturday, is improving nicely.

Mrs. S. C. Hudson, Taft, Calif.; Mrs. Mary Coran, Cincinnati; and Mr. Clarence Meyer, Mayville, Ky., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Herr, W. Main St. Mrs. Coran is Mrs. Herr's mother and Mrs. Hudson is her sister.

The Rev. Charles Nash, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Caldwell, O., will preach at the regular morning service Sunday at 10:45 o'clock at the First U. P. Church in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. J. P. Lytle. The Rev. Mr. Nash is the son of Mrs. R. H. Nash, east of Xenia.

XENIANS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Earl and Roger Heaton and Miss Mary Heaton, sons and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heaton, 430 S. Detroit St., Miss Donalds Cost, Dayton Ave., and Joseph Murphy, Troy, O., were injured in an automobile accident in Washington, D. C. Tuesday morning according to word received by relatives here. All of them received cuts and bruises and Miss Cost was the most painfully hurt the message stated. The party left here Sunday to spend a week visiting places of interest in the East. The accident occurred when their automobile collided with another car, it is said and the Heaton machine was badly damaged. The party will remain in Washington while repairs are being made to the automobile and will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Davis.

COUNTY 4-H CLUB NEWS

N. G. ? CLUB MEETS
The Jefferson Twp. N. G. ? Girls Club held its final meeting for the season at Jefferson Twp. School Friday afternoon. Plans for the Greene County Fair were discussed. Two girls from the food club and two girls from the sewing club will give demonstrations at the fair it was decided at the meeting.

trimmed cloth coats for general wear and velvet coats, luxuriously befurled, for formal afternoon and informal evening wear will be the rule.

Velvet will be more the vogue than ever. At one time regarded as a luxury fabric, it has been so developed and improved that the finest weaves are now moderate in price and so within the reach of most of us. The cheaper grades of velvet that were so badly and looked bedraggled and crushed after almost the initial wearing are disappearing before the really excellent and hard wearing qualities of the new velvets.

Velvet for formal afternoon and evening will be the rule, with of course velvet hats playing a tremendous role in the latest style pageant.

Felt will make its re-entry after an absence of several seasons as a millinery highlight. It will be used alone and also combined with velvet and chenille. Be careful of the new hats. There is a right and a wrong way to wear them. Seek the advice of a capable saleswoman and study the pages of style magazines before deciding on one. It may be true, too, that the style of hair dressing will not suit your new hat. In that case you should seek modified adaptations of the new mode. And be careful about feathers.

Ostrich feather trimming and long plumes are back very much in keeping with the new sartorial picture. The are lovely and most picturesque. But an elaborately trimmed ostrich hat is not for general wear or for the business girl en route to or from the office. Better stock to a plain hat with a tiny feather fancy or a quill. Use the new modes with discretion. Don't wear any thing at all times just because it is the fashion. One becomes part of the mode by adopting ing and adapting the best of the current fashions and wearing them to the right time and for the correct occasion. Even the cheapest store will be showing versions of the flat bowler hat in felt or velvet, encircled with ostrich feather trimming and having a plume hanging over the brim. It is a mode that naturally lends itself to exploitation. And so be careful about wearing it. Don't let the new hats go to your head.

As to the new coats, many will have separate shoulder capelets of fur, also gilets or waistcoats of fur for the more sporty models. Leopard, beaver, red fox and cross fox, Persian lamb and astrakhan will be used for utility and general wear coats. For the dressy coat silver fox, skunk, cross fox, blue fox and skunk will be favored.

Evening wraps will be mostly of velvet, long, slim and topped with rich fur collars. Afternoon ensembles in velvet with fine lace will also be part of the high mode. Of the evening frocks, more anon.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. WALTER HAMILTON

Funeral services for Mrs. Mayme Sheets Hamilton, who died at her home in Des Moines, Ia., were held Saturday morning in South Charleston and burial was made there. Mrs. Hamilton was well known in this city as she had a number of relatives here and had often visited in Xenia. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Hamilton is survived by a son, Charles Hamilton, of Des Moines, and a granddaughter. Her husband, Walter Hamilton, preceded her in death two years, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Owens, Mrs. Lawrence John, this city; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Owens, Dayton, formerly of this city and Mrs. Ernest Owens Dayton, attended the funeral services.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO STEALING AUTO

George Connors, 19, colored, 4 Columbus St., alleged to have been implicated with two other Negroes in the theft of an auto from a parking lot at the Hooven and Allison Co., last June 25, pleaded not guilty but was held to the grand jury under $500 bond by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Wednesday.

Connors had evaded arrest until Tuesday night when police apprehended him. The stolen machine, a Chevrolet coupe belonging to Horace Watson, was later recovered at Akron, O. Two colored men, accused of being implicated in the theft, were also arrested in that city and returned to Xenia.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession.—

Psalms, ii, 8.

GREAT FLOODS

Survivors of the great flood of the Mississippi in 1927 will have less difficulty than other Americans in visualizing what the Yangtze river is now doing to central China. The Mississippi inundation covered 28,500 square miles and took a total of 214 lives and property valued at possibly $300,000,000. The Yangtze is now raging down a valley that contains perhaps 200,000,000 people. Already hundreds of lives are reported lost, while the damage to crops means starvation for thousands more. Anhwei province is described as a vast sheet of water, — and there are 20,000,000 people in that province alone.

The most spectacular effect of the flood is reported from the three cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang, which huddle together six hundred miles up from the China sea and are collectively called the "Chicago of China." They have a combined population of probably 2,500,000. The Hanyang Iron & Steel Works is the most pretentious industrial establishment in the country. If you picture roughly equivalent populations of Detroit, Pittsburgh and say, Seattle, wallowing through the streets of contiguous cities waist-deep in turbulent water, attempting to rescue the contents of their one-story homes, you will have a fair idea of what is going on in the Wuhan today.

The Yangtze is a mighty stream; a mighty aid to commerce when it is well behaved, a mighty terror to the denizens of its valley when it goes on a rampage. The Great river starts in a number of small streams in the Tibetan mountains, at a height of 16,000 feet; winds south and then northeast through the Yunnan and Szechuan hills; and, finally, after breaking from the mountains, cuts almost due east through the heart of China and empties into the sea close by Shanghai, after a journey of more than 3,000 miles. When the melting snow on its native mountain peaks is joined by heavy rains in its own valley and the valleys of its larger affluents, a flood of more or less consequence results. This season the river has overflowed its banks along its lower reaches and turned into a sea the most populous valley in the world.

SUCCESS

Doubtless good fortune has followed trans-Atlantic fliers this summer, and has been a factor in assisting all of the five planes which have actually taken off to reach their immediate destinations without mishap. But that is not the whole of the story by any means.

Everywhere long flights have been accomplished with an extraordinary minimum of actual disaster, and the Boardman and Polanco hop from New York to Istanbul was of such magnitude that a successful, non-stop trans-Atlantic trip looms as one of the practical undertakings of the near future. The distance from the American Pacific coast to Yokohama is less than one thousand miles over the achievement of the travelers to the Turkish capital.

The facts are that great advance has been made by designers and engineers in producing durable, safe and efficient planes with a wide cruising range, and that fliers have been achieving new experience and skill.

It may be some time before trans-oceanic passenger routes become established, but the eye of faith can see that they are much less a matter of the distant future than appeared to be the case even a year ago.

MY NEW YORK

—BY JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—What few New Yorkers know:

That more visitors to Grant's Tomb inquire about "the grave of the amiable child," which is nearby, than ask the principal items of interest in connection with the President's memorial. But nobody knows the answers for sure.

That despite the fact that visiting motorists unfamiliar with local ordinances come to town by the thousands, native New Yorkers are responsible for more auto accidents, proportionally, than the visitors.

That Gar Wood, the speedboat king, in town not long ago, told friends he believed the maximum had been reached in size for marine racing engines, together with virtual perfection in hull design—although he is tinkering with a mammoth new power plant for his Miss America craft next year.

That Magistrate Gottlieb, of Yorkville Court here, sometimes "fines himself" $2 when a man is brought before him for sleeping in Central Park—giving the money to the defendant; and that last week he dispensed $45 in this fashion.

The Sing Sing prisoners now are driven to the Administration Building in a private motorbus on visiting days.

That it is incorrect to refer to a native of Scotland as a "Scotchman," "Scotsman" being the word and "Scotch" being the designation only for what comes in bottles.

That, in this dripping hamlet, it is currently impossible—well, almost impossible—to find potable beer, due to the closing of two big breweries recently which were flooding the city with 300,000 gallons daily.

That Staten Island Borough employees now get paid off from armored cars on street corners, in the belief that holdup artists prefer at least semi-privacy for their work.

That society folk who own vast estates at Newport R.I.—the "millionaires' Coney Island"—are now going into business to make operating expenses if possible. Care takers of the Robert Goetz showplace advertise cut flowers, hothouse grapes, neartines; Mrs. Moses Taylor, whose father willed her $110,000,000, sends her tenants into the city with milk, poultry and the like every day.

NO ESCAPE
Minna Gombell, the Fox discovery, would have laughed at you two years ago if you mentioned a talkie career for her. She wanted to be a doctor and pored nightly over her pre-med books. Her father is an M. D. in Baltimore and her uncle is the well-known Dr. Henry Salazar, of John Hopkins. But at a family conference she was convinced—what with recent initiation to dissecting rooms and all—that being a physician was no career for a pretty and sensitive girl.

So she took a flier to Hollywood, and having some stage experience, she landed a contract. Her first picture was, by sheer accident, "Doctor's Wives." Her next, "Bad Girl," soon to be released and packed with hospital stuff!

GOING ABROAD
You will believe this yarn from the passport desk down in the Treasury Building on Wall Street if you know some of the other odd things which happen daily in this lonely town.

A gentleman in immaculate morning attire presented himself before one of the clerks and expressed a desire to obtain a passport. He had his birth certificate, photos and even a witness—the witness being rather poorly dressed to know so grand a personage.

A radio wave length is approximately 3.28 feet.

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Fully as harsh things have been said of American prisons, many a time and often before, as those contained in the Wickersham commission's recent report to President Hoover on "penal institutions, probation and parole."

Hitherto, however, these denunciations invariably have been discounted, because their authors were popularly considered unsympathetic toward criminals, or mushily sentimental, anyway. The Wickersham report, on the other hand, cannot be regarded as otherwise than authoritative. It rests largely, to be sure, upon the testimony of some of the same reformers who, hitherto, have been pooh-poohed, but this time the charges they make have the weight of a presidential commission's endorsement back of them.

Taken by itself, the report is an exceedingly fine piece of work. It reveals the fact, to be sure, that the country's prisons, on an average, are 65.9 per cent over-full; one might inquire why the commission, as a general crime investigating body, fails to account satisfactorily for so much more crime—out of all proportion to the increase in population. Nevertheless, this particular report does not attempt to analyze, but simply states conditions, and it does that with admirable vigor. It is by far the most valuable of the commission's reports, in short, that the White House has made public yet. The one relating to the treatment of juvenile offenders in federal institutions is perhaps as good, in so far as it goes, but it does not cover so much ground.

State as well as federal prison managers are dealt with in the investigators' latest findings, in a manner that already has started a flood of explanations from governors and penitentiary boards in every direction.

Naturally they would prefer to contradict outright, or ignore, or ridicule the idea of treating desperate lawbreakers humanely, as in the past, when complaints have come from unofficial sources, but the Wickersham arraignment is not so easy to disregard or laugh off.

Overcoming, indeed, is rather freely admitted, but no state likes to plead guilty to the actual torture of convicts under the name of discipline, and the commission's impartial listing of the worst offenders in this respect evidently has started officials squirming at the capitals of a number of commonwealths which heretofore have considered themselves civilized because of their employment only of such up-to-date punishments as the "water cure" instead of the old-fashioned rack and thumbscrews.

Director Sanford Bates of the bureau of federal prisons (to whom, by the way, the Wickersham commission was indebted for much of its information) makes out a tolerably convincing case, it is true, for the energy with which the United States government is pushing its program for modern, sanitary quarters adequately to accommodate its rapidly-growing army of captives. The answers furnished by state functionaries do not so satisfactorily dispose of the commission's criticisms.

Some announce the launching of investigation, there are a few denials, and in several instances, the claim is made that improvements have been effected since the commission conducted its inquiry, but no detailed showings of anything that really has been done are forthcoming thus far.

Folk responsible for prison managements manifestly are perturbed.

How long their uneasiness will last, or whether it will lead to any genuine improvement, appears to depend on the persistency of public interest and the strength of public demand for correction of the abuses disclosed by the Wickersham commission.

Perhaps the hardest problem left by the presidential investigators, for penal experts to solve, was contained in their reference to the "popular fallacy" that prison inmates can be kept employed without competing with free labor. That their employment is virtually essential to their own welfare is agreed with absolute unanimity. Equally unanimous is the agreement in labor circles that their product must not compete with outside workers.

MENU HINT

Egg Noodles and Ham in Casserole
Vegetable Salad
Summer Squash
Berry Pie
Iced or Hot Coffee
Serve noodles with meat instead of potatoes occasionally. To get best results in cooking noodles, place contents of one package—in case you buy instead of making them—in two or three quarts of salted boiling water and boil rapidly until tender (about 15 minutes). Do not cover cooking utensil while boiling. Drain in colander.

Today's Recipes

Egg Noodles and Ham in Casserole.—One five-ounce package egg noodles, one slice ham (one-third inch thick), one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Garden Convenience
Make a bag like an envelope of oilcloth, large enough to hold an old pair of rubbers and a 10-cent pair of scissors. Hang conveniently in your garden and see how many steps are saved running to the house after scissors and rubbers.

Labels
Label jelly and jam like on grocery shelf and partition with cardboard, placing leftovers in front so it can be used first if desired.

Cocoa syrup is convenient to keep on hand, too. Cook cocoa with a little sugar and enough water to make a thick syrup, for about eight minutes. Cool and use one tablespoon for each cup of cocoa, or for mocha drink.

Coffee cubes frozen in the refrigerator tray are a bit different for serving with tea, cocoa or coffee. They give an added flavor.

When the innersoles of your favorite bedroom slippers become shabby, tear them out and replace with new ones which can be quickly made from a discarded felt hat. Glue them in lightly.

The success of the salad depends largely upon the salad dressing, and the salad dressing almost altogether on the seasonings and the flavorings used. The purpose of the salad dressing is to heighten and bring out the taste of the neutral fruits, vegetables and meats. Therefore make your salad dressing with care and vary its flavor to blend with the salad ingredients.

The Vatican gardens were designed by the great Italian painter Raphael.

Milk Sick Disease Is Now Rare

—BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Milk Sickness
Here is a very interesting disease and fortunately rare. It is the poisoning of humans with a vegetable poison which is contained in the milk of cows who have grazed on certain plants.

It is so rare that many physicians have never seen a case. I heard a physician lecture on the subject last year before the Illinois State Medical association. He had been lecturing on the subject many years, trying to impress people with the dangers of the disease and the necessity of destroying the weeds which cause it.

There are two plants—the white snakeroot and the rayless goldenrod. The poison they contain has been named trematol. It causes a serious state of illness in both cattle and man. In cattle the disease is called the trembles, on account of the incessant twitching and trembling of the muscles. In man it may result from drinking the milk or eating butter, cheese or the meat of poisoned cows. The poison is destroyed by heat, but not by the heat reached in pasteurization of milk.

White snake root grows mostly in wooded country. It does not grow well in bright sunlight. When trees and undergrowth are cut out enough to allow blue grass to grow, the grass will drive out the snake root. It grows abundantly in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys as far east as North Carolina. The rayless goldenrod is an inhabitant of the plains of Colorado, Texas and the southwest.

The disease occurs only in those cattle which are allowed to graze widely and in unselected pasture lands. It is a rare disease nowadays and education of the public and the dairy farmer has done much to cut down the incidence. The early settlers of the Middle West, however, were often poisoned. Herndon, in his "Life of Lincoln," says:

"In the fall of 1818 the scantily settled region in the vicinity of Pigeon Creek (Indiana)—where the Lincolns lived—suffered a visitation of that dread disease common in the West in the early days and known in the vernacular of the early days as milk-sick!... Abe's mother had fallen a victim of the insidious disease. Her sufferings, however, were destined to be of brief duration. Within a week she, too, rested from her labors."

It is certainly one of the queerest and most mysterious of human diseases. I have often thought that a good detective story could be written around it. In this story the villain would feed the family cow of his victim some white snake root and in this way accomplish the desired dispatch. Such a crime would stagger the powers of even Philo Vance. I do not write detective stories myself, so turn the idea over to the proper practitioners.

Editors Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Just Imagine Her Embarrassment!

—BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MADAM: I am a stenographer in a real estate office and what I wish to know is this: Is it correct for the employer to introduce his stenographer and private secretary to his clients, or to simply ignore the matter?"

"My boss does not introduce me to his clients, and it is my idea that he should. Of course I do not mean that he should take the time to introduce me to every one that comes in for just a second only, but for those that really come in for a conference of importance. An office girl can do so much to aid her employer if she has been introduced by being friendly and congenial and able to recognize him by name. This she can hardly do if she has not been introduced."

"Moreover, when a stranger comes into the office I feel silly to speak to the man when I do not know him (after he has spoken to the boss) and I feel silly not to speak to him. So what shall I do and just what is the proper thing for both the boss and myself to do?"

Take it for granted that you are to be friendly with anyone who does business with your boss whether you are introduced to him or not, Rosie. It is not customary to introduce the stenographer to the customers except on special occasions. She is part of the office equipment, you know, and is supposed to be as efficient and impersonal as the telephone and typewriter. This is perfectly proper and should cause you no concern.

Try to learn the names of the important customers and call them by name. Try also to anticipate their needs when they come in and also those of your boss; or I should say, anticipate those of the boss primarily.

A pleasant-faced, friendly-mannered stenographer—not an effusive, flirtatious one you know—is a very great help to an ambitious business man.

HEART-BROKEN: I often wonder whether you girls who complain that your parents are so strict and beat you, really aren't using your imaginations just a wee bit? Of course a girl of 17 is altogether too old to be whipped.

The only thing you can do, if you are as unhappy as you say at home, is to wait another year until you are of age and then leave. You may find that freedom from family restraint does not make you as happy as you think it will.

DISAPPOINTED MR.: Probably the boy you speak of is not ready to settle down and so goes with different girls, giving preference to none. You will have to accept his attitude and not encourage false hopes in yourself.

If you are as casual as he and are merely a good pal, making no demands on him he may take you out more, and later come to care for you.

Boys who feel that they do not want to marry for a few years always shy away from a girl whose attitude seems to say they want him to "go steady." That way danger lies for them.

M. L. D.: You are pretty young to marry, but maybe you better as you love this young man and he loves you and you are so unhappy at home. At any rate, keep on refusing to marry the young man you don't care about.

IGNORED: If the boy friend "walked out" on you, you will have to wait until he makes up his mind to walk back again. I am afraid. As to the crowd, they will probably take you up again when you go with him again or with some other boy.

Phenazines may fall in the wild, even though they thrive in captivity; possibly due to the lack of some vitamin or mineral in the wild foods.

It is a wise idea to give your hair a weekly or fortnightly not oil shampoo during the summer months. This will prevent the hair from becoming harsh and dry, and will help to keep it soft and glossy and young looking.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Cosmetics
Bunny: I think that a soft coffee shade of powder, soft orange rouge and light lipstick would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Fat Ankles
Betty: It would be impossible for me to print my method of reducing and shaping the ankles in this brief space. The process, however, is fully outlined in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Relaxation
Helen: Take a warm, lazy bath, and drink a glass of warm milk before you retire. Relax completely when in bed. If this doesn't help, I'd advise you to consult a competent physician.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

Central Gains In American League Battle

DEFEATS ST. BRIGID
AFTER SPOTTING FOE
TO FOUR-RUN LEADHornick Given Poor Support.
Winners Hit Ball Hard

Overcoming a four-run lead, Central High's softball team moved to within half a game of first place in the American League by pounding out a 14 to 4 victory over the last-place St. Brigid team at Cox Field Tuesday night.

The two school boy teams met for the sixth and last time this season and the triumph enabled the Bucs to win the season's series from the parochial team by a margin of four games won and two lost.

Central spotted St. Brigid four runs in the first half of the opening inning. St. Brigid made a total of nine hits off Storer, winning pitcher, and five of these blows were grouped in the initial stanza. After this rally, the last-placers subsided at bat and obtained only four more bingles during the balance of the game. Blangy hurled the last two rounds for Central without allowing a hit or being scored upon.

The Bucs, fighting to gain the league leadership, wasted little time in evening the count. They matched the four-run St. Brigid scoring spree with a similar rally of their own in the last half of the first stanza, then assembled five hits along with a walk and a few errors to count six runs in the third inning. The winners gathered fourteen hits off "Larry" Hornick but the St. Brigid team gave an extraordinarily careless exhibition on defense.

Marvin Spahr, right fielder for the Bucs, continued his heavy hitting. In five times up he hit safely three times and twice reached base on errors. Joe Fletcher, St. Brigid shortstop, got three hits, all infield blows.

The Red Wings and Graham Paints, two teams that are not far separated in the National League standing, will clash Wednesday night. Lineups:

FOODY LEGION POST
TO PLAY VETERANS
HERE ON SATURDAY

Foody Post, American Legion will engage the U. S. Veterans' Bureau of Cincinnati in a softball game on the Cox Field diamond here Saturday afternoon, play being called at 4 o'clock.

The Cincinnati team, supposed to be strong, lost a game, however, last week, dropping an 11 to 10 decision to Lebanon in ten innings.

Foody Post will be able to present a formidable lineup against the Veterans' Bureau. Either Herman Wells or Harry Williams will pitch with Tom McClellan or "Doak" Randall catching, "Atlas" Smith or "Chuck" Evin on the mound.

"Red" Seal at second, "Brownie" Baldner at third, Jay Burnett at short, Paul Fuller, Christ, and Fred Lang patrolling the outfield.

The Cincinnati veterans' team plays with only nine players instead of ten constituting a team and this policy will be followed in the Saturday game here.

MERCHANTS TO OPEN
JAMESTOWN SERIES

With the 1931 semi-pro championship of Greene County at stake, the Xenia Merchants and the Jamestown Independents will open a three-game series Sunday afternoon on the Washington Park diamond.

The team first winning two games will be declared the series winner. The three games, if three are necessary will not be played on consecutive Sundays, however.

Manager Jess Chambliss announces the opener will be staged this Sunday on the Xenia diamond, and the second game will be played in about three weeks on the Jamestown diamond, marking the first away-from-home contest for the Merchants this season and for many years past. Should a third and deciding game be needed, the teams will decide later where it will be played.

COUNTY FAIR RACE
ENTRIES

Four races, including a three-year-old trotting stake, make up Thursday afternoon's harness program at the Greene County Fair Shortship Circuit meeting.

The opening event, the 2:14 trot worth $400, has nine entries, pointing to a small but well balanced field, while the next race, the 2:14 pace valued at $400 in which Ray Henley, sensational local speedster is entered, has eight nominations. Big fields will characterize the closing two events, the stake race for a $500 purse having twenty-four entries and the 2:22 pace worth $300 having twenty-two horses entered. The entry list for Thursday's races follows:

Changes Plea and Fined on Charge
Withdrawing a former plea and entering a plea of guilty to possessing liquor, Bert Orisick, Stelton Road, was fined $300 and costs by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Tuesday afternoon. He paid the assessment. Orisick's hearing had been scheduled for Tuesday but he changed his plea of not guilty upon appearing in court.

REST HAVEN WINS

Smithson pitched the Rest Haven baseball nine to a 5 to 4 victory over the Delco team from Dayton Sunday. Allowing eight scattered hits, he fanned sixteen batters. L. Cryer, who contributed four hits in five times up and drove in all of the five runs, was the batting luminary of the contest.

Spying On Sports

Central Press Sports Editor
THE CLOUD of criticism currently engulfing major league umpires at the present moment smells to these nasal organs as though it might contain a large quantity of gas.

Always, more or less, inclined to regard the embattled arbiters of baseball in a kindly light, your correspondent finds it hard to believe that the brand of umpiring is as bad as it's supposed to be.

There is a strong suspicion that the blue clad solomons are actually just the victims of another kind of depression, the failure of seven ball clubs in each league to make pennant races of what now are only chases with the hares (the A's and the Cards) plenty of parasangs ahead of the hounds.

In hectic flag campaigns there is little or no criticism of umpiring as a rule. Ambitious managers are too busy to split hairs over every possible mistake. Why beef to-day when tomorrow a win might gain first place?

But when the leading club fades out of sight ahead, despite desperate efforts of his own team to catch up, the bench boss is liable to become crochety and crabbed, to be only too eager to shift some of his own burdens onto the shoulders in blue.

A BASEBALL MANAGER, harassed by a carping home crowd, has but to squawk at the first dubious decision to set the grandstand wolves swinging off his own trail and set out in full cry after the offending umpire.

Poor umpires and dishonest umpires have existed and may continue to crop up. But as a class, the vast majority are only earning their keep as best they know how.

On his own efficiency and high standard of accuracy rests an umpire's job. He must make hundreds of decisions a day, when he is behind the plate, and always before a hostile or, at best, suspicious audience.

What says umpires would be if they risked their jobs by deliberately invoking wrong decisions to rile the crowd. Yet, immediately after a bad decision, at least two-thirds of any baseball crowd, normally average in mentality, will take an oath that they know the boner was deliberate.

Why anyone should choose an umpire's career is as hard to understand as why people run for the presidency of Mexico. But there's a little hate stored away in the best of us and we must have a common enemy on which to vent our pet hate. It might as well be at an umpire as any other object.

Germany will send thirty athletes to the Olympic games. Not big news, but its cooling to think about.

Eleanor Egg, dancing teacher, wins track meet event. It was the 100-yard dash and not, as you suppose, the hop, skip and jump.

Twenty-three nationalities are represented in Temple University's football squad. All they need now is an interpreter for quarterback.

SHE DANCED 2,113 HOURS
HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 5.—Miss Marie Hepp, of Hammond, claims that she has danced longer than any other woman in the world. She and a male partner danced continuously for 2,113 consecutive hours at a ball room in Chicago to the music of the Huesey Pike, all spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Hollingsworth and family. The local softball team after being idle for two weeks, owing to the busy season, came back strong and defeated Eleanor, Monday evening 14 to 9.

FEDERAL BUILDING
PROGRAM SPEEDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Hoover today made public a report on progress of the federal building program which showed that on July 15, fifty-seven buildings, costing $25,326,876, had actually been completed. This represented completion of six new buildings since May 15.

As of July 15, 192 contracts had been let, with a total value of $135,637,366. This meant forty-two new contracts, totaling a little over $15,000,000, had been let since May 15.

Five new sites were acquired, plans completed and arrangements being made to let contracts in the two-months' period, bringing the total on July 15 to sixty-one, with a value of $44,249,800.

In addition two other sites were acquired, but plans only partly completed.

CONSTRUCTION OF
WILL SOUGHT; WIFE
SEEKING DIVORCE

A petition seeking to have the court construe the will of the late Julia C. Sterrett, who died December 20, 1929, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Lounette Sterrett, as trustee under the will, against Bessie and Lounette Sterrett.

The petition explains the decedent devised her property in trust to the plaintiff to be used for the benefit and support of Bessie Sterrett and that the trustee was authorized under terms of the document to exercise her own judgment in hadling the property to the best interests of Bessie.

Upon the death of Bessie Sterrett the property, the will provides, is to pass to the trustee.

The plaintiff asserts she is in doubt as to the true meaning of the will, particularly as to whether the income only from the property should be used for the benefit of Bessie Sterrett, and asks that a guardian be appointed to protect Bessie's interests. Miller and Finney are the plaintiff's attorneys.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

The declaration that her husband has refused to furnish her a home, except for two months, since their marriage March 3, 1928, and that he bought her only one garment during their married life is contained in a divorce action filed by Mildred Massie against Arthur Massie, 217 High St. The plaintiff asks to be restored to her maiden name of Walker. They have one child, Robert, 3.

CONTRACT VALID

The plaintiffs have a valid oral contract of purchase with the defendants for a lot on E. Main St., according to a ruling favorable to Warren and Leona Roberts in a suit filed against William H. and Ida Shields. The court decided the plaintiffs, upon payment of $1,081, balance due on the purchase price, are entitled to receive a deed to the real estate from the defendants.

DISMISS SUIT

On application of the plaintiff, the case of Hazel Johnson against Glenn Johnson has been dismissed.

Literary Genius

Barbara, S. and Andrew John Kaufmann, 10 (above), have already written and illustrated a book all by themselves! However, that literary achievement doesn't thrill them as much as their toys. They are the children of Reginald Kaufmann, Geneva newspaper correspondent, and an author of note. Mrs. Kaufmann writes under the name of "Ruth Wright." So the youngsters seem to be chips off the two "old blocks."

READ THIS FIRST:

Nita and Natalie Dudley, orphaned small town sisters, both attractive, are on their way to New York, intent on bettering themselves. Nita is the smart girl of today. Natalie is the more reserved, younger. She wonders where Nita has obtained money for the trip, and besides, she is carrying orphans. Nita shocks Natalie by intimating that she obtained the money from Natalie's former employer. Natalie is concerned, hurt. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER 2

"WE'LL NEVER, never go back to dear old Truesdale. Blah for Truesdale!"

Nita's decision, punctuated by a snap of her pink-nailed fingers, was spoken to her sister whose eyes fastened to the window's mirrored pane where dots of lights and flying telegraph poles slithered past hurriedly.

"We're off at last. It seems stranger every time I think of it." The dancing dots and silhouettes still held Natalie's eyes. She sat silently, shielded as if by a strange high wall which the talkative Nita could not possibly penetrate. A wall, high and dark, that shut in memories so close their contact hurt.

She had been thinking, seemingly ignoring her sister's chatter for many miles as the train sped along toward New York. Her thoughts invariably centered about Nita and their most recent conversation. "I'll never rest until you have told me how you got all of that money, Nita," Natalie had urged her sister over and over for some more sensible explanation.

"You're such a goody-goody," Nita had countered, "that after I tell you you probably won't rest, either. You have a way of suspecting the worst possible happening, you know."

But finally it had all come out. And now Natalie was reviewing it all over again in her mind. . . . Nita had borrowed money from Richard Marlen. . . $500 to tide them over until they found jobs. . . tickets to take them to New

The Theater

The curtains of mystery are lifting from RKO's big special, "Creation," in which prehistoric monsters will take life upon the screen.

A yacht is caught in a tropical storm as it is driven close to a rocky shore, an earth shock dislodges the side of a cliff, revealing a subterranean passage.

Helpless before the storm, the yacht is carried into the aperture to emerge finally in a world peopled by giant beasts of another age. The boy in the story will be played by Joel McCrea, one of RKO's favored young actors.

Harry Hoyt, who has been experimenting for more than a year on construction of the monsters, will direct. It was he who furnished the dinosaurs for the silent film of "The Lost World" and it was he who sold RKO on the new picture.

If you are curious to know what midday will wear this winter, Samuel Goldwyn is your man. The producer recently had a private fashion show of the twenty-one original creations sent to Hollywood by Mlle. Gabrielle Chanel, Parisian designer.

Secrets of national defense could not be guarded more closely. The consignment, including evening gowns, negligees, pajamas, tailors, traveling outfits, sports clothes, came over in charge of Chanel's first assistant, Mme. Jane Courtois. Only Goldwyn was allowed to see them modeled.

And once shown, they were packed away until it is time to prepare the wardrobe for "The Greeks Had A Word For It." As yet the creations are all done in white muslin. The choosing of the colors will be left to Willy Fogarty, Director Lowell Sherman, Mr. Goldwyn and the camera staff. Colors won't be so important anyway in the black and white of the motion picture.

EMPLOYMENT FOR MANY

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 5.—Several hundred persons will receive employment as the result of the starting of construction of the new $500,000 Hammond city hall. Thousands of motorists on the way to the 1933 World's Fair at Chicago will pass the new building inasmuch as its site is on a paved road leading directly to Chicago.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Girls seem fired with ambition to meet their match.

The comeback of color-photography advances a step with the news that Paramount will use a 400-foot technicolor sequence in each pictorial newsreel of the 1931-32 series. Technicolor officials insist their new process eliminates all grainy effects and produces true-to-life tints. Several of the subjects already have been shot. They include views of the training of polo ponies on a western ranch, the latest modes in table-china and closeups of gold fish farms.

Musicals also seem to be looking up. With Maurice Chevalier's "The Smiling Lieutenant" doing well here, Metro is producing "Flying High" and Radio is pushing forward Gershwin's "Girl Crazy" and Victor Schertzinger's "Marcheta." Wheeler and Woolsey will film the former as their next in place of "Peach of Reno" and Richard Dix and Irene Dunne will co-star in "Marcheta" before Dix does "Frontier." The company may go to Spain for authentic atmosphere.

MRS. HENDERSON, LATE SOCIAL DICTATOR, REIGNED FAIRLY

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The castle of the nation's social ruler is dark and gloomy; hiding the thoughts of the woman who lived there alone and for the last half century dictated to American and European society as freely as she gave orders to her servants—and was obeyed.

Death lifted the unofficial but internationally recognized crown from Mrs. John B. Henderson July 16 at Bar Harbor, Me., where she maintained a summer retreat during her latter years. Probably it will not be worn for some time for a present her veteran followers fail to indicate a single person who would attempt to continue Mrs. Henderson's reign.

"Of course somebody will take over Mrs. Henderson's post as arbiter," one society leader said. She indicated that the selection of a new ruler might come through an elimination process.

LOGO WEED MYSTERY Baffles Science; Hurts Livestock

TUCSON, Ariz.—You may know what makes the wild cat wild, but not even a scientist knows what makes the loco weed loco.

We know the effect of the loco weed upon live stock," said Dr. William G. McGinnies, range ecologist at the University of Arizona, "but just what the constituents of the weed are, we have not been able to determine. Various hypotheses have been suggested, but they have all been proved wrong by further research.

A cow or horse which starts eating loco weed becomes addicted to the habit as a human being becomes addicted to morphine or any other dope. Cattle who are eating the weed will not stay with the herd, but stray off by themselves and it becomes almost impossible to drive them. They have the appearance of poor health, their coats become rough and their eyes glassy and staring. The effect is cumulative and if they are not taken away from the loco weed territory, they eventually will die.

"Cattle can be cured of eating loco weed," Dr. McGinnies went on, "if they are taken away from the place where it is obtainable and put on a feed of alfalfa or other hay. However, if they can ever get the weed again, they will go right back into their former habit. Usually cattle are taken away and butchered as soon as their loco eating proclivities become apparent. The weed has no effect upon the quality of the beef. Horses who have become addicted to the weed never recover. "Eradication of loco is a very difficult problem on the range," Dr. McGinnies continued. "Digging it out seems to be the only way to get rid of it and the expense involved in that method makes it almost prohibitive.

CHARDON DWELLING BOASTS 118 YEARS

CHARDON, O., Aug. 5.—A residence building which is 118 years old and is still in condition for occupancy stands on King Memorial Highway in this village.

Records show the house, now occupied by M. E. Cooley and family, was completed in 1813 after three years of hard work.

Ox teams from Fairport Harbor hauled the bricks. The journey carrying lime for the bricks had to be made at night because of the extreme heat.

Sand for the bricks was obtained by pulverizing sand and stone. Each brick was hand-made and the lathing is hand-split. Everything was made by hand, including the nails which held the lath in place.

Within the building are five fireplaces, one in each room.

VEGETABLES WON'T PAY ALIMONY HERE

ELYRIA, O., Aug. 5.—Out of money or not, you cannot use vegetables to pay alimony while under jurisdiction of Lorain County Common Pleas Judge A. H. Webber.

The passage of this rule recently by Judge Webber followed the sentencing of Howard Walker, 20-year-old Athol farm, to five days in jail for contempt of court.

"I'm tired of the vegetable diet," Mrs. Viola Walker told the court. "When strawberries are ripe, he brings me strawberries, and when turnips are in season, he brings me turnips, but no money."

Walker admitted to the court that he brought the vegetables to his estranged wife because he had no cash and didn't want her to be hungry.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND UNVEILING PROGRAM SATURDAY

The ceremony of unveiling a memorial to Alexander Berryhill, one of the four Revolutionary War soldiers buried in the old Pioneer Cemetery, north of Bellbrook, will be held at 4:15 o'clock Saturday, August 8.

The program will open with the presentation of the Sons of the American Revolution official grave marker by Warder Crow, of Michigan, a great-grandson of the deceased soldier. The marker will be unveiled by Evelyn Berryhill, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berryhill, north of Bellbrook, a great-granddaughter, and will be accepted by Attorney General H. Thorne, Xenia, former assistant attorney general of the United States.

Next on the program will be congratulatory messages from the Sons of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution chapters, after which the Turner Brothers quartet will sing the selection, "America Triumphant."

A local Boy Scout troop will be present in uniform and a fitting climax to the exercises will be furnished by the sounding of bugle call and taps and the firing of a salute by a cadet squad from the O. S. and S. O. Home.

An invitation is being extended by the committee in charge to the public to attend the ceremony.

Lips Sealed Since 1889 Reveal Story Of Tragedy

VIENNA, Aug. 5.—From the lips of the late Emperor Franz Josef's closest friend and confidante, came today a belated explanation of the tragic death of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, found lifeless by the side of his sweetheart in the hunting lodge of Mayerling forty-two years ago.

Apparently desiring to end once and for all the heated controversy that has raged for decades over the manner in which the crown prince met his death, Frau Katharina Schratz, lifelong friend of Franz Josef, gave a detailed statement to the Vienna newspaper "Morgen," asserting that Rudolph took his own life after firing a bullet into the brain of his sweetheart, the beautiful Baroness Marie Vetsera.

Frau Schratz's statement was a dramatic augmentation of the official version of the tragedy given out by the Austro-Hungarian emperor the day after the shooting occurred. Most Austrian authorities were inclined to accept it as authentic and definitely repudiating the frequent charges that Rudolph was murdered by relatives of the Baroness.

"It was a touching tragedy," Frau Schratz declared. "The crown prince abandoned life because he saw no hope of permanently uniting with little Marie Vetsera, whom he loved uncontrollably.

"Despite all that has since been written, the crown prince first shot the unhappy baroness through the temple and then shot himself. All other versions are pure fairy tales."

Frau Schratz, now more than 70 years of age, was one of the most beautiful and talented women of Franz Josef's court. She was on equally good terms with the emperor and empress, and was in the palace to keep an engagement with the monarch the morning the tragedy was discovered.

Franz Josef first attempted to disguise the tragedy, informing the crowned heads of Europe that his eldest son had died from a stroke, and later changed his version to one of accidental shooting. Finding both explanations were held in concealment, Franz Josef decided to tell the whole truth and announced the shooting was murder and suicide.

The controversy over the double tragedy recently was reopened by Prof. Friedrich Marx of the University of Bonn, who declared after lengthy research work that he was convinced Rudolph was slain by relatives of his sweetheart, seeking to take her away from him, and that the baroness was accidentally killed in the fray.

Frau Schratz's statement was the first she had made since the tragedy occurred in 1889.

WHITE POPULATION IS 108,864,207 IN STATES IS SHOWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The white population of the United States on April 1, 1930, aggregated 88.7 per cent of all persons living within the country, while the negro population made up 9.7 per cent of the total, the census bureau announced today.

Due to the falling birth rate and the restrictions on immigration the increase in the white population from 1920 to 1929 of 15.7 per cent was somewhat slower than during the preceding ten years when the gain was 16 per cent.

On the other hand the negro population from 1920 to 1930 showed an increase of 13.6 per cent, which compared with a gain of but 6.5 per cent the ten years prior to 1920.

Total population April 1, 1930 was 122,775,046 divided as follows: White, 108,864,207; negro, 11,891,143; Mexican 1,422,533; Indian, 332,397; Chinese 14,954; Japanese, 138,834; Filipino, 45,208; Hindu, 3,130; Korean, 18,860; all other 780.

OLD COINS BROUGHT OUT TO PAY TAXES

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Aug. 5.—Old coins and aged money are being brought to light from hidden caches as June taxes are being paid in Perry County, reports County Treasurer G. G. Milgate.

This tendency of persons to use their concealed "nest eggs" as tax money has been noted particularly this year. Many of the bills are old large denominations and decidedly good. Among them were twenty dollar yellow-back gold certificates rarely seen in circulation these days. Some of the money that is paid in is a bit musty and faded as though it might have been buried.

Others are frazzled and worn. It is believed that many persons are hoarding and hiding their money instead of putting it into banks where it could continue in circulation.

MT. VERNON HIGHWAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—An important federal project is a great memorial highway from Washington's home at Mount Vernon on the Potomac River to the National Capital, 12 miles upstream.
